TEXAS OIL OPERATORS FINED

SOUTHERN PACIFIC AND EMPLOYEES TO REACH AGREEMENT

ONLY THREE DIFFERENCES LEFT OUT OF OVER HUNDRED AT START

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—The emergency board of mediation reported today to President Roosevelt that "all substantial causes" for the threatened strike on the Southern Pacific Lines in Texas and Louisiana have been removed.

The board, headed by Frank P. Douglass, conducted a public hearing in Houston from November 29 to December 15.

One hundred and eight alleged grievances had been advanced by all employes. On a strike ballot the report said, they "voted 97 1-2 per cent in favor of withdrawing from the service of the carrier unless a satisfactory settlement of the matters enumerated therein could be otherwise obtained."

The board added that after preliminary negotiations only three cases were left for hearing, the others having been "otherwise cared for in the agreement of the parties."

The three cases involved, first, the railroad's discontinuance of a shuttle service, called "The Hurdy," between two of its yards in Houston; second, the protest of conductors on the Houston and Texas Central Railway being required to copy train orders over telephone "in the absence of any agreement to do so;" third, the complaint of Brakeman R. Caldwell of the Valentine subdivision that he was cut off the extra list but not called again in turn in accordance with seniority privilege.

Findings of Board.

The board's findings on the three cases:

First — "The board is of the opinion that the position of the employes with respect to the Hurdy is well taken; but that, [illegible] an adequate substitute in the form of buses is now being maintained, so long as this continues it would seem the complaint of the employes, as a basis for the threatened strike, rests more in apprehension than in substance."

Second — "The board can not wholly agree with the carrier that the absence of a prohibitory rule permits management to require of any class of its employes service not reasonably within

Three Killed In Motor Accidents West Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Two men and a woman lost their lives in Western Oklahoma automobile accidents late last night.

Near Walters, 2nd Lieutenant John C. Price, 21, and Private Roy D. Aven, 22, were killed when their car, in which they were driving to Fort Sill upon completion of Christmas furloughs crashed into the back of a pipe laden truck. No one was arrested.

The widowed mother of five children, Mrs. Mabel Moody of Enid, was crushed to death when a car plunged 30 feet into a creek near Douglas. George Goodin, glass factory owner who was injured seriously in the accident, said Mrs. Moody seized the wheel of the car when she thought she saw an obstruction in the road.

Lieut. Price, whose father, J. C. Price, lives at Palestine, Tex., was graduated from West Point last year. He was attached to the 38th infantry at Fort Sill.

HUMPHREY TAKES FIGHT FOR TRADE COMMISSION PLACE TO UNITED STATES CLAIMS COURT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—William E. Humphrey, today took to the United States court of claims his contention that President Roosevelt's action in ordering him removed as a member of the federal trade commission last October was "illegal and void."

In a petition filed with the court, Humphrey, a republican, demanded from the United States [illegible]251.39 he said was due him as his salary from October 8 to November 30.

Disclosing for the first time the full correspondence between himself and the president, Humphrey placed before the court the transcript of four letters from Mr. Roosevelt. Two of them requested his resignation, a third accepted his resignation, although Humphrey contended none had been offered, while a fourth contained only these words:

"I am in receipt of your letter of September 27th. Effective as of this date (October 7) you are hereby removed from the office of commissioner of the federal trade commission."

The controversy between the president and Humphrey, which already has been picked up as a political issue by some republicans and is certain to be aired in the coming congressional session, has been simmering either beneath the surface or in the open since last July.

Humphrey refused to relinquish his post even after the direct order from Mr. Roosevelt. He based his case before the court on the contention that congress intended the commission to be an independent semi-judicial, non-political body, the members of which would be independent of the will of the president and subject to removal only for causes stated in the statute.

For 14 years a republican representative from the state of Washington, Humphrey was first appointed to the commission by President Coolidge in 1925 and was reappointed by President Hoover for a six year term in 1931.

Beginning New Era In Controlling Farm Surpluses Is at Hand

By EDW. A. O'NEAL, President, American Farm Bureau Federation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Unity of action among farm organizations has been demonstrated in the past year as being possible. Farm organizations ordinarily have worked congenially together, but in the last twelve months they have worked in a particularly close formation.

The beginning of a new era in regard to control of surpulses, although discussed several years prior to 1933, got into full action during that year. I refer to the control of surpluses by limiting production rather than trying to control them after they are produced.

Ten years ago we did not need to limit production because then we had world markets. Nineteen hundred and thirty-three brought us face to face with the fact that our world markets for farm products had largely vanished and that farmers, if properly rewarded, should control their production.

Nineteen hundred and thirty-three was particularly significant to agriculture in that it confirmed our federal policy of taxation based on ability to pay, despite the fact that the federal government in its efforts to relieve unemployment needed vast funds.

The income method of taxation has been continued through this troublesome period instead of resorting to other forms of taxes which are based mostly on necessity to consume.

In my opinion, along with the great tax victory just spoken of stands the monetary policies now being put into effect throughout the year 1933. The revaluation of the dollar, recognition of silver, and the general expansion of credit throughout the nation by governmental activities, constitute an epoch in the fiscal policies of our nation. The "honest dollar" which the American Farm Bureau Federation for years has advocated is now a near reality.

Planned Program.

Nineteen hundred and thirty-three marked a definite beginning of a planned agricultural program for agriculture, in which control of production, retirement of margignal lands from production, proper marketing of farm crops, support of agricultural educational agegncies, and similar activities are given more recognition than ever heretofore they had been given.

We are barely at the beginning of this era, however, and much larger action will be needed than we have been able to start in 1933.

Th year just closing also shows to my mind that the administration at Washington is more farm-minded than former ones have been, and with the policies initiated in the past year and carried forward, as they are now planned, we can look back to 1933 a few years from now and realize that agriculture, so far as federal recognition is concerned, entered a new era with a new hope and confidence in the administration of President Roosevelt.

The beginning of this hope and confidence is evident in the incrases in prices on farm products which have begun an upward swing, taking the country as a whole.

VALUES PRINCIPAL TEXAS FARM OUTPUT SHOW BIG INCREASE

MORE THAN FIFTY PER CENT INCREASE OVER PREVIOUS YEAR IS SHOWN

AUSTIN, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The farm value of principal Texas crops this year represents an increase of 51.6 per cent over last year and 14.4 per cent over 1931, the December report of the United States department of agriculture revealed.

The total farm value of principal crops, exclusive of money received from the government on cotton and wheat acreage reduction contracts was estimated at $353,378,000 for 1933 compared with $233,164,000 for 1932 and $308,910,000 two years ago.

"These increases are brought about primarily by higher prices received by farmers, since in most instances production was lower than in the two years just passed," the report stated. "The

BOND CONFERENCE AT AUSTIN HOPED WORK OUT SALES

GOVERNOR, BANKERS AND COMMISSION CONFER ON SALE RELIEF BONDS

AUSTIN, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The governor, bankers from a number of the larger cities and State officials were in conference here today relative to promoting sale of Texas' $5,500.000 relief bonds, which the legislature authorized floated, proceeds to be used in feeding and clothing indigents.

Governor Miriam A. Ferguson; her husband, former Governor James E. Ferguson and members of the State bond commission, agency charged with sale of the securities, were closeted in the executive offices, while they discussed plans for the sale.

Members of the Texas relief commission, group that disbursed relief funds, also in session, announced its readiness to throw its extensive state-wide organization behind an appeal to the patriotism of Texans to purchase the bonds.

Lawrence Westbrook, director of State relief, told members of the commission and they acques-

GOVERNMENT SUES NEW YORK BANKS COMPEL PAYMENT

CLAIMED WRITTEN GUARANTEES GIVEN DEPOSITORS CLOSED HARRIMAN BANK

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The federal government has filed suit against the twenty banks of the New York Clearing House association and individuals who served on the clearing house committee during the last two years to compel payment in full to depositors of the closed Harriman National Bank and Trust Company.

The government contends the clearing house committee, in behalf of all the banks, gave written guarantees of paymnt of deposits late in 1932 and early in 1933 when the committee arranged with the controller of the currency not to close the Harriman bank lest it precipitate a crisis for all. The Harriman bank failed to open after the bank holiday last March. Approximately half the claims of the depositors were paid in July through an RFC loan, and it is estimated the sum of $9,275,000 would be required to pay all depositors in full with interest.

The banks are understood to have taken the position that the guarantees were given "in a crisis and without extended consideration of the technical formalities involved," and do not now constitute a legal obligation.

The government, in its complaint filed yesterday, asks the state supreme court to compel the banks of the clearing house to recoggnize that they made a binding agreement to protect the depositors of the Harriman bank and "thereafter breached and repudiated it."

The government's suit was said to be without precedent.

TWO MARLIN BANK ROBBERS BELIEVED MADE GOOD ESCAPE

TIE KIDNAPED BANK EMPLOYEES TO TREES IN BELL COUNTY PASTURE

MARLIN, Dec. 28.—(AP)—A clean getaway apparently had been made today by two robbers who looted the First State Bank here of $41,000 and held three employes of the bank captive for nearly 12 hours.

After sacking the bank vault, the robbers sped by automobile to a wooded pasture about nine miles south of Rogers, in Bell county, carrying with them as hostages, Vice-President M. V. Bradshaw; Miss Andrew Peyton, bookkeeper; and Lee Humphries, a negro porter.

Shortly after the robbers and the bank employes reached the pasture, two hunters, Jack Davis and Lee Davis, wandered unsuspectively upon the scene and they, too, were taken prisoner.

At dusk yesterday, the robbers tied the five to trees and after warning them to "keep your eyes shut or we'll punch your eyes out," drove away with the money. The bank employes and the hunters freed themselves in about an hour and notified officers, but were unable to tell which way the robbers went or to provide more than vague descriptions of them. None of the five were injured.

From the time they entered the bank until they left their captives in the pasture, the robbers repeatedly warned them not to try to see what was going on or to look at their captors. The captives were forced to keep their heads down.

In Marlin Three Days.

Bradshaw said the robbers, who carried out their crime and subsequent escape coolly, confided to him that they had been in Marlin for three days "lining up the situation."

BORDER PATROLMAN AND SMUGGLER DIE IN EL PASO BATTLE

ANOTHER OFFICER AND TWO ALLEGED SMUGGLERS WOUNDED IN FIGHT

EL PASO, Dec. 28.—(AP)—A deadly exchange of shots between United States border patrolmen and Mexican smugglers in the slums of South El Paso—near the Rio Grande—brought death today to Patrolman Bert G. Walthal and a smuggler identified as Jose Estrada of El Paso. Another patrolman, Louis A. Smith, was wounded slightly.

In the ensuing search for smugglers who fled the fight late last night, officers captured three other Mexicans—two of them wounded. One was in serious enough condition to require hospitalization. Officers also arrested an elderly man who lives in the house where the other three were hiding.

The shooting broke out when Walthal and Smith, accompanied by Patrolman Curtis D. Mosley, drove up to a car parked at a street intersection near the international boundary. The smugglers in the parked car opened fire at close range. Walthal fell mortally wounded. A bullet grazed Smith's head.

Smith and Mosley cut loose with, their pistols, sending bullet after bullet into the Mexican's car, which was driven rapidly

LONG LEAVES FOR WASHINGTON TO PRESS SEATING MRS. KEMP; SANDERS RECEIVED MANY VOTES

BATON ROUGE, Dec. 28.—(AP)—With his political irons in the fire in two fierce election battles in Louisiana, Senator Huey P. Long, was en route to Washington today to press seating of Mrs. Bolivar E. Kemp, his choice as sixth district congressional representative.

Strife for the moment was centered in the sixth district where citizens yesterday held their own independent election and poned a total of 14,584 votes in 181 out of 197 precincts for J. Y. Sanders Jr., their choice to succeed to the congressional office vacated by the death of Mrs. Kemp's husband.

Meanwhile, another sector commanding the attention of the Louisiana "Kingfish" was New Orleans where a Long-supported third ticket was forced into the mayorality campaign by the old regular organization's rejection of Long's suggestion for a district attorney on their ticket.

All twelve parishes in the sixth district took part in the election yesterday and the balloting, comparatively heavy, was carried out without the flash of guns, ballot and effigy burning and firing of shots and issuing of court orders that marked the election of Mrs. Kemp on Dec. 5. Mrs. Kemp was nominated by the district executive committee and elected without a primary.

Though Sanders, an anti-administration leader in the State senate and a political enemy of Long, was the sole candidate on the independent ticket in yesterday's election, Mrs. Kemp received at least 19 write-in votes.

Sanders pointed to his heavier vote as "a smashing repudiation of Long's attempt to name the congressman from the sixth district."

Sanders said he would go to Washington and press his cause on the claim that Mrs. Kemp's election was illegal and confiscatory of the people's right of franchise in the denial of a primary by the governor and the further claim that his election was legal and fair and represented the will of the people in the district.

Mrs. Kemp is already in the capital city conferring with Speaker Rainey and other congressional leaders.

WINTER COMES TO THE FAIR

The millions of visitors to the World's Fair in Chicago in 1933 will hardly recognize this picture as the Belgian Village. The mantle of snow which so enhances the charm of this bit of the Old World enabled the photographer to obtain this beautiful picture.

FURY OF WINTER SUBSIDING OVER NATION THURSDAY

INTENSE COLD, HOWEVER, STILL PREVAILED IN MANY SECTIONS

By The Associated Press.

The fury of winter's onslaught had subsided considerably today over much of the United States, but intense cold still prevailed in many sections.

More than 100 persons have died, according to unofficial estimates, as a result of blizzards, ice, snow, and cold.

In New York City, 34,000 men struggled beneath a leaden sky and in far below freezing cold today to complete the task of removing a 10.7 inch snowfall from the streets. Homeless men and women straggled over ice-coated sidewalks to municipal lodging houses for food and shelter last night.

The cold wave swept into the south yesterday after bringing death and distress to many other sections. Chicago alone counted 18 dead yesterday as the mercury fell to 10 below. Wisconsin had a total of 21.

New England, cheered by predictions of rising temperatures, was nevertheless worried over 29 men missing in fishing craft off Maine's coast.

White River, Ont., was the coldest spot yesterday, with mercury slithering down to 56 below. Points in Minnesota were not far behind, with 47 belw. Even in Atlanta, Ga., the temperature fell to 22 abve.

Coast guardsmen were ordered out from Chicago early today to seek three fishermen missing with their craft, the Seagull, on Lake Michigan. Guardsmen earlier had saved four men in a fuel-less launch off Essex, Md.

Deep drifts still hampered travel in parts of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Upstate New York. In the wide area between the Rockies and the Mississippi cold blasts that had caused much suffering had moderate today.

Garner Regrets He Is Unable to Talk Any More

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 28.—(AP)—John N. Garner, en route from his home in Uvalde, Texas, to Washington for the opening of congress, spoke regretfully today of the old days when as speaker of the house he talked more freely than as vice president.

"I used to be able to hand you boys some news once in a while," he said, as he climbed out of a barber chair at Union Station. "But I don't dispense any, any more."

He smiled when a reporter recalled that Garner's prediction here a year ago that prohibition would end within the year, had come true.

"It sure has," returned Garner, his bright blue eyes snapping under bristling white brows. "Well, I ought to make good on a prediction once in a while. I've been up there in Washington now for 40 years.

"But," and a shade of regret came over his ruddy face, "that's all over now. All I do is preside in the senate and vote when there's a tie—and when is there going to be a tie?"

BOMBS CONTINUED DISCORDANT NOTE IN CUBAN PARLEYS

URUGUAYAN MINISTER CONFERS WITH PRESIDENT GRAU ON PEACE PLAN

HAVANA, Dec. 28.—(AP)—A half-dozen bombs boomed a discordant note in Havana early today as government leaders talked new plans for political peace in Cuba.

The detonations resounded through scattered sections of the capital. No casualties were reported.

Benjamin Fernandez De Medina, Uruguayan minister to Cuba and author of a political conciliation plan, conferred until the early morning hours with President Ramon Grau San Martin. The minister declined to comment upon the nature of their long conversation.

A government spokesman, however, said there was a possibility that conciliation negotiations between Cuba's warring political factions would be reopened.

Such negotiations would be based, he said, "upon Grau remaining in the presidency with a coalition cabinet."

Medina said he saw several opposition leaders while in Miami within the last few days and that they were "all anxious to return to Cuba—they all desire peace."

Dr. Antonio Guiteras, secretary of the interior, war and the navy announced that martial law will be lifted Jan. 5, and soldiers withdrawn from Havana's streets.

He also said that all of the officers who figured in the national hotel battle, with the exception of a few leaders, will be released early next week.

Dr. Jose Gonzalez Rubiera, former Havana University professor, prepared today to assume the post of secretary of public nistruction, following Grau's announcement of an expected cabinet change. Costales Latatu now holds the office.

BIRTHDAY OF WAR PRESIDENT IS BEING OBSERVED THURSDAY

ROOSEVELT TAKES LEADING PART IN WILSON COMMEMORATION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—With President Roosevelt taking a leading part, nationwide commemorations of the 77th birthday anniversary of Woodrow Wilson today were centered in the national capital.

As a prelude to an address tonight by the President, associates and friends of the war-time chief executive arranged to place a wreath upon his tomb in the Bethlehem chapel of the Washington Cathederal during the afternoon.

Meanwhile, throughout the country, other observances were planned by members of the 124 Woodrow Wilson clubs.

Mr. Roosevelt, in an address to to be broadcast by the two principal radio chains beginning at 10:30 Eastern Standard Time tonight, will speak before the Woodrow Wilson Birthday dinner as the first democratic president to participate in this observance since Mr. Wilson's administration. He served as assistant secretary of the navy under the war president.

With Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt tonight will be Mrs. Woodrow Wilson as guest of honor. Vice-President Garner and members of the supreme court of the cabinet, with their wives, were invited as other honor guests.

Roland S. Morris of Philadelphia, former ambassador to Japan, will preside at both the wreath ceremony and the dinner as president of the Woodrow Wilson foundation. Present also will be the war president's son-in-law, Francis B. Sayre, assistant secretary of State.

President Roosevelt was one of the original members of the foundation, organized in 1920 to perpetuate the ideals of Mr. Wilson for world amity and preservation of peace. It has made awards to Viscount Cecil of England, Elihu Root and Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh for their contributions to world amity.

RUNNING OF "HOT" OIL BRINGS HEAVY PENALTY FOR SIX

NAMES OF PRODUCERS AND AMOUNTS PAID WERE ANNOUNCED THURSDAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The interior department, on instructions from Secretary Ickes, the oil administrator, today made public details of six cases in Texas in which it said settlement out of court was made with the federal government as the result of charges of interstate movement of "hot oil."

The secretary had requested the information from a special agent of the department's bureau of investigation in Texas.

In five of the cases a double sum was said to have been paid by the alleged violators of "hot oil" state statutes and federal regulations.

The payment to the state was described by Louis R. Glavis, chief investigator, as a "fine," while he said that the federal government was in the nature of "a silent settlement out of court for violation of regulations."

The alleged violators and the sums paid to the state and federal governments were announced as:

R. W. Porter $10,000 and $3,000; B. M. Scisco, $4,000 and $2,000; R. O. Laneve, $2,000 and $1,000; J. Z. Weroby $2,000 and $1,000; L. B. Phillips $2,000 and $1,000.

The sixth case was that of J. A. Johnson. Railroad demurrage charges totalling $6,650 had accumulated before the shipment was made and a technical settlement of one dollar was made with Johnson.

"Hot oil" is produced in excess of the allowable set for a particular area by the Texas railroad commission. A state statute prohibits such production and federal regulations prohibit its shipment in interstate commerce.

Glavis explanied that the amount of the settlement was gauged with a view of taking any profit which might otherwise have been made in a "hot oil" transaction.

Five State Cases.

The special agent in Texas said in his message to the interior department there were cases in five oil counties of East Texas in which only the State had been involved, and the [illegible] not give details.

In commenting on reports said to be current in Texas that several large companies had made out-of-court settlements, Glavis said the cases made public were

New Antiseptic That Kills Germs In Wholesale Wa

PHILAEDLPHIA, Dec. [illegible]—In Azachloramid, a very distant chemical cousin to wartime chlorine gas, bacteriologists today reported discovery of an antiseptic which kills germs wholesale without harming some body tissues.

The experiments were described to the Society of American Bacteriologists by Franz C. Schmelkes, Henry C. Marks, Isabella B. Romans, Elizabeth [illegible] Horninp and Albert F. Guiteras of the research laboratories at Belleville, N. J.

They made the azochloramid by using a platinum electrode in chlorine compound solutions. They found that it had only slight affect on amino acids, which comprise some of the most important substances in a healthy human body and upon cystine, a body form of sulphur.

GREAT SUBMERGED CONTINENT LIES BENEATH NORTH PACIFIC BETWEEN ASIA AND AMERICA

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Stretching beneath the surface of the North Pacific lies a continent, hitherto unknown, with huge plateaus broader than an above-surface continent; with twice the width of America; with mountains higher than Mt. Everest and with great deeps, separating it from Asia, that drop more than six miles to their bottoms.

This unknown territory was discovered recently, it was disclosed today, by the echoes from the sonic depth finder aboard the U. S. S. Ramapo on a survey of the ocean bottom from America to Asia and from 10 to 50 degrees north latitude, when she was commanded by Captain Claude B. Mayo, U. S. N.

The submerged territory is not marked by steep depths in its separation from North America, which appears more to be a raised Eastern shoulder of the submerged continent, but the west coast of Asia shows a series of tremendous deeps.

From north to south in the west portion of the continent is a mammoth mountain ridge with towering peaks that are known to Pacific marines as islands (Hawaii, Etc.) banks and reefs. Although there is no proof, it may be conjectured that when survey is made of the Pacific floor area South of 10 degrees north it will be discovered that the various groups of South Sea Islands are southern peaks of the great western ridge of the sub-continent.

This "new" continent, it was explained at the Scripps institution of oceanography at La Jolla, contains definite valleys marking the courses of ancient rivers, countless volcanoes which are still active beneath the sea, broad flat or rolling plateaus and other general continental features characteristic of the continents above water known to man.

NEW AGENCIES ARE BATTLING FARM ILLS AS 1933 ENDS

RISING PRICES FOLLOW CROP CUTS AND DEBT RELIEF

CROP AND MARKET CONTROL PROVIDED BY AGRICULTURAL ADJUSTMENT ACT

By CARL C. CRANMER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The twin problems of agriculture, debt and commodity surpluses, bore the brunt of government attack in 1933.

To solve the surplus problems, the agricultural adjustment act was passed, providing for crop control and marketing agreements.

To meet the debt situation, the farm credit administration was set up, and lending agencies that had been scattered under the old federal farm board, treasury, Reconstruction Finance corporation, and department of agriculture, were grouped under one head and broadened.

Four Types of Credit

Department of agriculture figures show that in 1932 farm mortgage indebtedness was about $8,500,000,000. For the year ending last March approximately 38.8 farms out of every 1,000 were involved in transfers for debt.

Four types of credit are provided under the new set-up by the federal land banks, production credit corporation, intermediate credit banks and banks for cooperatives in each of 12 regions.

By issuing $2,000,000,000 in bonds with interest guaranteed, the federal land banks were permitted to assume farm mortgages held by private agencies in order to stop foreclosures.

Nearly half a million farmers applied for $1,700,000,000 in mortgage loans between May 12 and December 1.

Geared to great loans which amounted to only $27,569,000 in 1932, the land banks stepped up their lending from $3,985,000 in July to $58,352,000 in November, or a total of more than $110,000,000 in the five months.

Big Response In Borrowing

By the end of November mortgage loans were being made at a rate of $3,000,000 a day, and outstanding loans totaled $1,206,000,000 compared with $1,118,000,000 on June 30. Other types of loans outstanding, including those to cooperatives and production credit associations, totaled $524,374,000.

Meanwhile, prices of nearly all farm products advanced and Secretary Wallace estimated the 1933 gross farm income at $6,400,000,000 compared with $5,143,000,000 last year.

Part of the increase, however, was cancelled by increases in prices of things the farmer buys. Thus, while the index of farm prices advanced from 50 in Mach (with prices of 1910-14 taken as 100), to 72 in November, the index of prices he paid also increased from 100 in March to 117.5 in November.

Processing Tax Aids

Benefits from processing taxes in the Adjustment administration's crop curtailment campaigns will add $300,000,000 to this year's farm income, it is estimated.

Nearly 10,400,000 acres of cotton were plowed under, and an almost record crop of 17,135,000 bales reduced to 13,177,000, slightly under normal. Growers received an estimated $350,000,000 from increased prices, plus $110,000,000 in benefits, and perhaps as much as [illegible] in loans to hold their crop off the market. A crop only five-ninths as large as some record acreages in the past is planned next year.

Wheat growers signed agreements to cut next year's crop by about 8,000,000 acres, and checks for the $102,000,000 in benefits began going out in November. A world wheat agreement respecting exports and production was negotiated.

Government Buys Pork

The government bought 6,200,000 pigs and 220,000 sows at a cost of $31,000,000 to reduce this winter's market supply, and then launched a campaign to reduce the 1934 corn crop by a fifth and the pig crop by a fourth. Maximum benefit payments will approach $350,000,000.

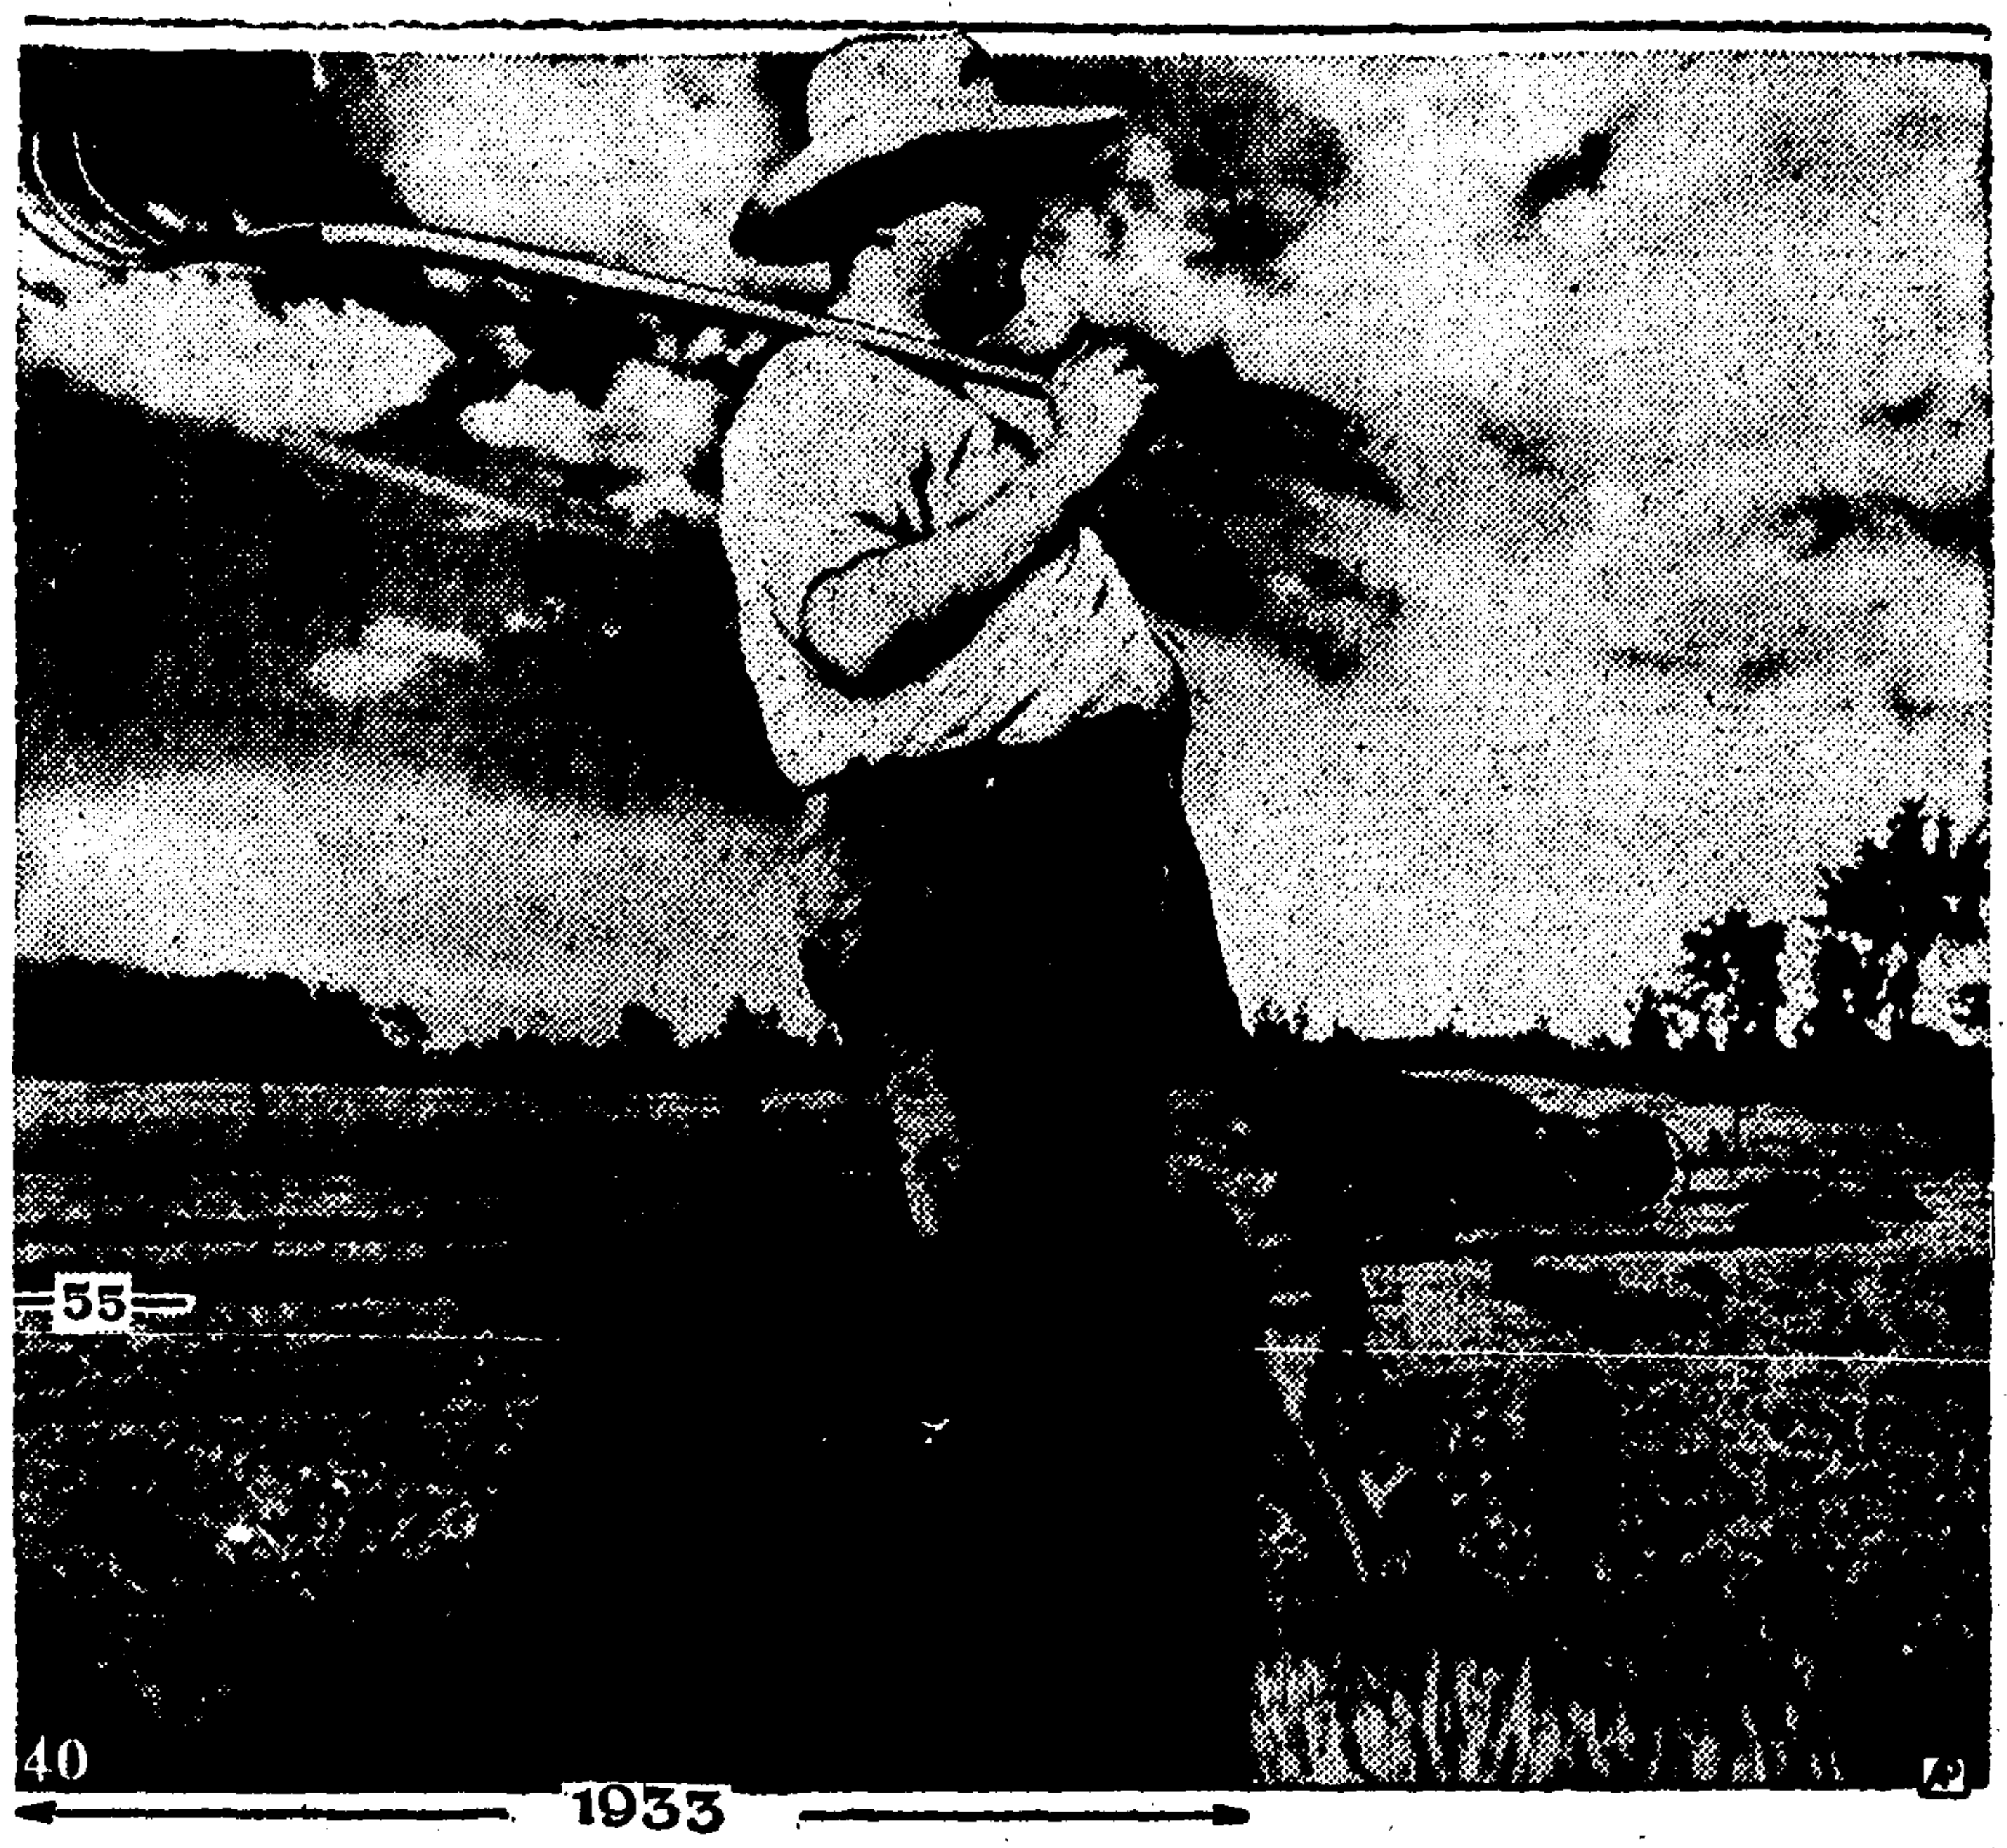
When a farm strike, led by the Farmers Holiday association flared in the midwest, a commitment was made to lend up to $150,000,000 on corn held on the farm.

Similar trouble also threatened in the south when low tobacco prices caused the closing of markets. But the growers of flue-cured tobacco received $75,000,000 more this year than last, it is estimated, when they agreed to cut acreage next year up to 30 per cent, and manufacturers agreed to pay a minimum price of 17 cents a pound. Benefits will total about $17,000,000.

Thirteen milkshed marketing agreements were negotiated. With 12 others nearing completion. These agreements are estimated to increase the returns to producers of Class 1 milk by $30,000,000 annually.

Several other marketing agreements including fruits and rice were put into effect.

The Farmer Marches On—What Will the New Year Bring.



On and on marches the American farmer, out of 1933 into another year, hopeful that prices of his products will continue in 1934 the rising tendencies evident since the spring upturn. The diagram prepared by Standard Statistics, shows the farm products price index, on the basis of 100 for the year 1926.

GRAVE DANGER SEEN IN RUSSO-JAPANESE EASTERN RELATIONS

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Joseph Stalin, head of the communist party in Russia, says the Soviet government desires friendly relations with Japan but he sees a "grave danger, and we cannot but prepare to meet it."

That is what Stalin told Walter Duranty, Moscow correspondent of the New York Times, in an interview today.

Stalin said that if the more "reasonable" elements and more "prudent" counsels prevail in Japan, the two countries can live in amity, but he added that Russia "feared that the militant faction may push the saner policies into the background."

Of Soviet-American trade, the communist leader said the "volume of our trade with America for the time being must be measured by the degree of confidence America puts in us—and this by the volume of credit."

"What foreign commissar Litvinoff said in London still holds good. We are the greatest demand market and are ready to order—and pay wor—largge quantities of goods But we require satisfactory conditions of credit."

Stalin said Ambassador William C. Bullitt made a "very good impression" in Moscow.

"What I like is that he does not talk like the average diplomat," he said. "He is straightforward and says what he means."

Stalin also had praise for President Roosevelt whom he called a "decided and courageous political leader."

He said he believed business is beginning to improve and that the lowest point in the depression is already past.

Russia's most important internal problems, Stalin believes, are development of the distribution of goods between town and country, and the improvement of transportation, especially the railroads.

BONDS

ced that he was confident the securities, only approximately $1,300,000 of which have been purchased ,could be sold through a systematic campaign.

He expressed the opinion that the rest of the $2,750,000 advertised for sale could be absorbed by banks and the additional $2,750,000 issue authorized by the legislature, whenever the commission should ask for their sale, disposed of to individuals.

Will Last Four Weeks.

The commission, virtually out of money, estimated that proceeds of the $1,300.000 sale would carry those on the relief rolls through nearly four weeks.

Earl P. Adams, member of the commission, argued that too much relief money was being expended and quoted many statistics to show that conditions are not now as bad as this time last year. He said the proceeds of the $1,300,000 sale should be made to carry the needy through February.

R. L. Holliday of El Paso, commission member, suggested that should Texans not purchase their bonds, Vice-President John N. Garner be appealed to to influence President Roosevelt to issue an executive order directing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to purchase the securities.

Westbrook had explained that the R. F. C. was not permitted to buy bonds of this kind unless directed to do so by executive order of the President.

GERMAN CRIMINALS APPARENTLY FACING PRECARIOUS EXISTENCE AS PART OF NEW HITLER PLANS

(Editor's Note.—Herewith is presented the second in a series dealing with legal reforms being instituted in Germany under Chancellor Adolf Hitler.)

By WALTER BROCKMANN
(Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

BERLIN, Dec. 28.—(AP)—It is too late for convicts in German penitentiaries to resolve to make good this new year.

On January 1, 1934, a new penal code goes into effect. It is described by some as perhaps the most drastic of modern times. Many of those now behind the bars face extended sentences as a result.

Since the advent to power of Chancellor Adlf Hitler, 50 persons have been executed under specially passed and still existing laws interpreted partly to apply to political and criminal slayings.

Awaiting execution in his cell at Leipzig, Marinus Van Der Lubbe, young Dutch bricklayer, is the first man ever sentenced to death for arson in Germany.

The law under which he was condemned last Saturday was passed just after the reichstag building fire, Feb. 27. It was declared retroactive, making Van Der Lubbe's confessed crime of starting the fire high treason.

Beginning with the new year, more rigorous measures—hailed as "genuine justice"—will be inaugurated.

Committees are at work "Hitlerizing" some 20 kinds of justice, ranging all the way from matrimonial to maritime.

Compulsory sterilization laws go into effect January 1, too, along with a new civil code. That also is the date for the reinstallation of the military courts.

That criminals and malefactors are beyond redemption is the attitude indicated by the new criminal laws.

Serious offenders who are considered to constitute "a public menace" will not be released from jail even after serving their sentences. They will be compelled to perform forced labor as long as they are so considered.

There is a clause for sterilization or "dangerous sex criminals."

Under the general sterilization law, probably the greatest roundup of sick human beings in medical history is occurring as a prelude to putting it into effect.

On Jan. 1, 1,700 eugenic courts will begin to function to pass on the cases of an estimated 400,000 "hereditary incurables."

One of the most striking features of the sterilization law is that anyone sentenced may escape only by going into an institution for the rest of his life at his own expense.

Commenting on this, the Frankfurter Zeitung said "the rich can evade sterilization by restricting their liberty, but for the poor there is no way out."

In "cases of necessity" the law provides that police may be called to quell a rebellious patient on the operating table.

Only when sterilization may entail peril to life may exemptions be made. Operations will not be permitted on youths under 14, nor in cases in which "for advanced age or other reasons, the person concerned is not capable of reproduction."

Beginning Jan. 1, military courts will begin to function as in imperial times for the reichswehr and navy. Death by shootng has been reinstated as capital punishment for soldiers. Members of Hitler's party and his storm troops are suject to special jurisdiction.

One was fined Wednesday by Judge Bryant for the alleged theft of a crank case. The arrest was made by city officers.

In Toils After Gun Battle

Although they are in an unenviable position, these two girls, Frances Collins (upper) and Ruth Spencer, who were captured at Paris, Ill., with Edward Shouse (left), ex-convict who is said to be a member of the Dillinger gang, seem to take the situation philosophically, if not gaily. A policeman was fatally wounded in battle preceding their arrest.

from the scene. Shortly afterward the car was found a few blocks away, riddled with bullets. In it was the body of Estrada, about 35 years old.

Nick Collier, district director of the border patrol headed a detachment of patrolmen which, reinforced by city police, combed hideouts for the fugitives. They closed in on a house where the smugglers were reported barricaded, but when they broke in, found no one there.

By this time some 50 officers were engaged in the manhunt and finally they located the smugglers in another house near the river. The smugglers offered no resistance.

Walthal was about 35 years old and had come to El Paso from Flagstaff, Ariz., two years ago. He was survived by his widow and four-year-old daughter. Smith came here a few months ago from Florida. Smith was in the same detachment from that state as Doyne C. Melton, patrolman killed in a fight with smugglers here on Dec. 7.

CROP VALUES

value of each crop is higher than for last year with the exception of Irish potatoes, apples, pears, oranges and grapefruit.

"The farm price per unit is higher this year than last for all major crops excepting grapes, oranges, and grapefruit. Grapes are reported at the same price as a year earlier while grapefruit and oranges are slightly lower.

"Yields, generally, [illegible] than those of the past two years. Although the combined yield per acre of 35 important crops [illegible] placed at 128.4 per cent of the ten-year average (1921-1930), the extremely high yield of cotton in a large measure accounts for this high percentage. Rice, alfalfa seed, peanuts, sweet potatoes, and sugar cane syrup are the only other crops yielding higher than last year.

"The total acreage of important crops harvested in Texas this year is placed at 26,802,000 acres compared with 30,663,000 acres last year and 32,419,000 acres in 1931. A large part of this decrease from last year came out of cotton although other crops, with the exception of grain sorghums, sweet sorghums, sugar cane and wild hay shares in the decrease."

CORSICANA SCHOOL EXECUTIVE MAIN SPEAKER AT HOME

JOLLY AND PEP SQUAD GIRLS WERE HOSTESSES FOR FINE PROGRAM

Members of the 1933 I. O. O. F. Home Lynx football team, two-time district-B champions, were honored at a banquet staged at the Home Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The banquet was sponsored and prepared by the members of the girls Jolly club and pep squad. An elaborate and well-appointed menu was served. W. H. Norwood, superintendent of the Corsicana schools, was the principal speaker.

The prowess of the 135-pound district champion team was extolled and praised by a number of speakers. Coach Boyd Payne said he would have a nucleus of seven lettermen from which to fashion his 1934 bid when he will attempt to win his third straight B district pennant. Sweaters or the seventeen lettermen did not arrive in time to be presented at this banquet, but will be issued within the next few days.

W. O. Barlow, band director, was toastmaster for the occasion.

Musical Numbers.

Mrs. Joel C. Trimble, formerly a member of the Home faculty; Lloyd Kerr and Miss Georgia Ruth Pollock, pianist, furnished several well-received musical numbers.

Jimmie Blevins, acrobatic dancer from the State Home, with Martha Alford, I.O.O.F. Home at the piano, was presented.

The invocation was given by Superintendent Ross G. Harris.

In the beginning of his address, Superintendent Norwood complimented the 1933 Odd Fellows scrappers on their hard playing and clean performance. He declared that there was a little thread of destiny in a person's life, and gave examples of apparently unimportant instances in his experiences which have played an important part in his career and have proven turning points in his life.

The Corsicana educator declared that the Odd Fellows had one of the best schools, team and officials to be found in any section.

"The game of football teaches the game of life better than anything else," Supt. Norwood said, and in concluding his remarks declared that perseverance, teamwork and loyalty were necessities in football and in life and that the Odd Fellows team had exemplified all three virtues.

Among others speaking were Red Harbin, captain and quarterback; J. S. Halley, superintendent of the State Home; Mrs. J. S. Halley, Paul Moore, Daily Sun sports editor; Supt. Ross Harris of the I.O.O.F. Home; Mrs. Ross Harris, H. I. Rush, principal of the Home school; Miss Mae Venable, sponsor of the pep squad; Sammie Cruse, former student, now at Sam Houston State Teachers College; Hazel Nelson, pep squad leader; Martha Alford, president of the Jolly girls club; Ruth aylor, and Florine Buckalew, both former students.

Hog Purchasers Reported Making Raisers Pay Tax

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace today threatened to use all powers of the farm administration to prevent the evasion of processing taxes by local hog buyers.

In a statement, the secretary declared that local hog buyers, small processors, and other purchasers of live hogs for commercial slaughter have been reported to be deducting part or all of the processing tax from the market price quoted to farmers selling hogs.

The secretary urged that the names of hog purchasers who deduct the amount of tax from the price they pay to farmers be sent to Dr. A. G. Black, chief of the corn-hog section of the farm administration.

Wife of Picture Producer Victim Purse Snatcher

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Gloria Craig, 23, wife of John Craig, producer of deep-sea and travel motion pictures, was shot and stabbed last night by a purse snatcher. Her condition was serious.

Mrs. Craig told police she was shot when she offered resistance. A bullet entered her chest. Later the thug attempted to strip her fingers of rings and when she again resisted, stabbed her in the arm. Her screams brought rescuers. The man fled with the purse.

Former Well Known Texas Banker Dies In Oklahoma City

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Thaddeus C. Phillips, 79, retired Texas banker, died at his home here Wednesday. He came here in 1918 from Bowie, Texas, where he operated one of his [illegible] Texas banks. His wife and [illegible] daughters survive. A brother, [illegible] M. Phillips, lives at Hot Springs, Ark.

Mr. Phillips was a brother-in-law of Mrs. E. A. Collum of this city and uncle of Mrs. Tom G. Johnston, Mrs. Sid Story and Mrs. J. M. Church of this city.

LONG DEAD, STILL LIVING, HERO CONFRONTS OUR TIMES *

Greatest of Christians Challenges Present Ideals and Usages----Apostle Paul Must Be Disposed of Before New Codes Can Be Substantiated.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

Most of our noisy moderns are not clever enough to perceive that they are up against a Great Alternative. They cannot escape the inexorable "Either, Or." Either they are right in repudiating old modes of thinking, old codes of conduct and old moral laws—in which case they must honestly and definitely chuck onto the scrap heap the explicit teachings of the Bible—or else they are utterly wrong and must climb down out of the fog and admit the stern authority of the plain teachings of Holy Writ.

Not even the Bible students who have been living for three months with the experiences and utterances of the Apostle Paul have all perceived the profound implications of the case. Either Paul spoke with authority and was eternally right—in which case the loose thinking and looser conduct that have marked our post-war era is dead wrong—or else he is a mere picturesque personality from the remote past promulgating queer notions that are no longer valid; and so to be disregarded as a factor in our present times.

Dodge the issue we may not, if we are to retain any shred of intellectual honesty. Paul lived and spoke; the record is of proved authenticity. He claimed to represent Jesus, and to express His mind by Divine command. In that capacity of spokesman, he laid down many explicit doctrines, concerning, for example, personal chastity, personal probity, personal obligations to society, personal thought life and personal holiness. These undebatable teachings were presented as the will of God. There they stand. They must either be accepted and practiced or else cast away altogether.

Which seems to me to be the issue above all other issues in this our befuddled day. Shall the world walk Paul's way— God's way—or will it still wander in pagan sensuality, mistiness and unsocial selfishness?

An Idea With Flesh and Bones.

This man Paul, who shares with Moses the distinction of being the most influential human being that ever trod the earth, became the incarnation of an Idea. In him, truth took on flesh and bones. Nobody who knows anything about him—and to be ignorant of Paul is to be uneducated, regardless of whether one be an atheist or a saint—can miss the outstanding meaning of his life. He himself, put it into words "For to me to live is Christ." He was a Christ-obsessed man. He lived and labored only to know and to do and to express the mind of Christ. For Paul, with his giant intellect and lowly life, was the chief interpreter of the crucified and risen Jesus.

In his many speeches, reports of which have survived, and in his extant letters to his converts and friends, he codified, as it were, the will of God, for human conduct. There are none of the normal relations between the children of men which are not particularly dealt with by this master mind, who avowed repeatedly that he spoke with Divine authority. He did not leave his followers in the dark as to how human beings should behave. He set up the Christ standard of life so clearly that nobody could have any doubt about what is right and what is wrong.

That is the man, long dead but still living as an immeasurable influence in the world, who stands face to face with a modern world with its bewildered, anarchistic, pagan notions.

A Clarion Call to Youth.

Suppose we recall, in a few paragraphs, the outstanding facts of this man Paul's life.

He was well born and well trained. Apparently, wealth as well as culture, was his heritage. Instead of becoming a waster, he devoted his youth, with all its powers, to the best thing in sight, which was the Jewish religion, the faith of his fathers.

Paul's example is a clairon call to youth. He got into the game of life. No sitting on the sidelines, in a spectators' role, for him. The defect which countless observers point out in contemporary sport is that it is something to be looked at and to be talked about, rather than to be played. Paul threw himself impetuously and whole-heartedly into the greatest cause he knew, after ripe preparation. Ah, how the needs of our day call for the active, self-spending devotion of young men and women of quality!

Changing a Mans' Mind.

While still in his early thirties, bitterly bent on his mission of maintaining Jewsh orthodoxy and extirpating Christianity, Paul ran into a sensational experience on the Damascus Road. There, amidst a vision of light that blinded him, he encountered Jesus, his arch-foe. Thenceforth he was the captive of Christ, who became his soul's satisfaction, ideal and passion. He lived and labored tremendously, only to proclaim Christ.

It sets one to thinking seriously when he recalls that this scholar-philosopher-logician, Paul, the graduate of the universities of Tarsus and Jerusalem, was not changed by argument, by philosophy, by logic; but by a personal, emotional experience. And to his subsequent appeal was to people's experience. He tried to introduce them to Christ.

In the collosal task of changing mens' minds about God, the heart must play a larger part than the brain. Men are more accessible through their emotions and their will than through their intellects. Some moderns decry the old-fashioned emotional religion; yet, that is just what we need to take hold of the springs of life and bind them with fervor to the Way of the Cross. Conversion is still the Gospel program for salvation.

One Man's Adventures.

There is something deep in the breast of normal manhood which honors the adventurer, the explorer, the pioneer, the hero. By this test, the Apostle Paul proved himself a man's man. Disdaining ease and scholarly seclusion, he fared forth to where dangers lurked, where the bugs bite, where murderous foes awaited, where prisons yawned, where storms raged. No task was too difficult for him to attempt, no expedition too dangerous for him to undertake. Whatever else history has inscribed below the figure of Paul of Tarsus, it has not failed to write, "This Was a Man."

Imperial audacity characterized Paul. He did not hesitate to fling himself against the high ramparts of entrenched moral corruption in Antioch, Ephesus and Corinth; and against the citadel of pagan philosophy in Athens. Nor was his insatiable Christian ambition satisfied until he matched powers with Rome itself, the ruler of the whole world.

Had he failed, he would have been called a futile fanatic, a mere madman. But he won. As a result of the Gospel Paul preached, Antioch, Ephesus and Corinth became Christian centers; Athens surrendered to "the pale Galilean" and Rome has had its longest fame and greatest power as a center of the religion of Jesus. And in great nations, whose very possibility of existence was unsuspected in his lifetime, Paul's teachings set the standard of Christian civilization. In its N. R. A. the United States has accepted the Pauline principles as the new order of life.

And All Because—

All this has befallen because one high spirit found God for himself. The only explanation for Paul's career is Christ. That same Lord is eager to meet, on modern Damascus Roads, other fine souls who are serving the best cause they know.

"Who goes a step toward God,
through doubtings dim,
God goes a mile, through blazing
light, to him."

All of upheaval and revolution and unrest that has marked our post-war-world is in essence, but a quest for the Better Life. Blindly and blunderingly, humanity has been seeking Something More, something worthier of free mortal spirits. Unknown to itself, this quest for personality and peace and the good life has been a reaching out after God—whom Paul found, and was transformed in the finding.

FIREMEN EXPRESS APPRECIATION FOR AID IN TOY WORK

With the distribution completed of the several hundred toys repaired by members of the Corsicana fire department in the weeks preceding the Christmas season, the department expressed its thanks Wednesday for the donations of toys and materials used in the repairs and also for the co-operation of the citizens in turning in the discarded playthings.

Among those who supplied materials were F. V. Blucher of the Sinclair Refining Company, John P. Garitty of the Magnolia Petroleum Company, Ashmore Bros., Moore Bros. through A. W. Leverman; Eclipse Grinding Company, Cameron Lumber Company, and Clopton-Hagin Planing Mill.

The toys were distributed through the United Charities, Red Cross and Salvation Army.

Navarro County Man Enlisted In Marine Corps Second Time

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 28.—(Spl.)—Among the applicants to fill the few Texas vacancies in the United States Marine Corps who passed the final examinations at Marine Corps headquarters, New Orleans, was Newburn C. Key, of Corsicana.

Mr. Key is the son of Rev. R. E. Key, route 4, Corsicana. He graduated from Rice high school, Rice, Texas. He enlisted in the Marine Corps in 1926 and was discharged after serving his four years in 1929. On re-enlisting Mr. Key was sent to Pensacola Naval Air Station for duty.

Men to fill the Texas vacancies receive their preliminary physical in the home localities and those selected receive their final examinatioss at Carine Corps District headquarters, 535 St. Charles St., New Orleans, La.

The Marine Corps acceptes only young men who are graduates from high schools or schools of approved standing.

SportNotes

By PAUL MOORE
Sun Sports Editor

Greenville is picked by the writer to win the state championship Saturday, 13-7, over the fighting, scrapping Dallas Tech Wolves. A victory by Dallas Tech, however, would not be classed as an upset, as the two finalists both are great football aggregations. The winner will succeed the Corsicana Tigers, 1932 champions.

Johnny Pierce, Tiger mentor, has made arrangements for tickets for the first squad of Corsicana high school this season to witness the championship affair Saturday.

A new record for attendance at a championship affair is expected to be registered if favorable weather conditions result.

Members of the Corsicana Ex-Tigers who downed the Palestine All-Stars in their charity game here Monday afternoon will be honored at an oyster supper at the Magnolia Lake Friday evening.

The Central Texas Sports Writers Association annual convention will be held in Temple Thursday night. Sport writers from Waco, Temple, Hillsboro, Cleburne, Waxahachie, Corsicana, and other Central Texas towns will be on hand.

The writer and Charlton Gunter will represent the Sun at the annual affair in the Bell county metropolis.

Dana X. Bible, Nebraska coach and formerly of Texas A. and M. College, has succeeded Dan McGugin, Vanderbilt, as president of the American Football Coaches' association. This is a high honor to a coach and Bible's thousands of friends and admirers in Texas are pleased with his selection. His election was announced at the annual meeting in progress at Chicago.

Alarmed at the wholesale losing of jobs by coaches for various reasons, H. J. Stegeman, athletic director at Georgia, advanced the following reasons for coaches losing their jobs—"The coach didn't mix with the faculty; he failed to add anything to the life of the community except produce a football team; he failed to place himself at the disposal of the college administration; he suffered from too much specialization and ignored other sports; he was discourteous to newspaper men and they finally got his job; and he was too serious and unbearable even to his closest friends before unimportant games."

There is a lot of logic to the reasons advanced toward the situation. The writer has seen coaches who appeared to be swelled up at their importance and acted as if they were doing a sport writer a favor by giving their lineups—a sport writer is a human being and when they are working in the interest of a sport by publicity—they are entitled to at least courteous treatment—especially at the hands of the coaches who in a large measure are getting a great deal more benefit out of the publicity than are the sport writers. In other words, a sport writer can get along without the individual coaches easier than the mentors can without their goodwill and services. If a coach is discourteous there is little or no incentive for the scribes to go out of their way to help them, and when the wolves start, it's too bad.

Arkansas and Centenary Gentlemen will clash in Dallas Monday in the annual charity game for the benefit of the Scottish Rite hospital for crippled children. This should prove a thriller as it will between two of the outstanding teams in the Southwest—in fact, the two strongest elevens of this section. Arkansas finished the season ahead in the Southwest conference but was not awarded the title due to the use of an ineligible player. Centenary has made a great record and has been undefeated. Centenary is one of the stronges aggregations in the country.

From the interest and questions asked among grid enthusiasts here during this week, there will be more Corsicana fans at Dallas Saturday for the titular game between Greenville and Dallas Tech than have ever journeyed to a championship tilt.

Plan Operation Friday on Texas Baby Flown Far

BALTIMORE, Dec. 28.—(AP)—After a second examination today Dr. Walter E. Dandy, noted surgeon, said he probably would attempt a difficult brain operation on five-months-old Sue Trammell of Houston, Tex., tomorrow.

He certainly would not perform the operation before that, Dr. Dandy declared.

The child was flown 1,400 miles from Houston to Baltimore arriving here early yesterday.

The blue-eyed, baby, cooing in her crib at the hospital, was described by attendants as showing no indications of suffering. Another child of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Trammell, her parents, died several months ago of the same ailment.

LONGVIEW, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The Lake Lamond Dance Pavilion, one of the most popular in East Texas, was destroyed by fire early today with damage estimated at $12,000.

A nightwatchman said a masked man broke into the room where he was and told him to leave.

"I'm going to burr the place," he was quoted as saying.

The Mad Marxes—all four of them. Girls, girls, girls, headed by vivacious Raquel Torres, and songs you'll be singing for months.

Put them all together and they spell "Duck Soup," the comedians' newest Paramount rib-tickling special, which comes on Sunday to the Palace theatre.

In addition you'll see Margaret Dumont, the dignified actress who has been stamped on and clowned with in several of the Marx Brothers' other pictures and Louis Calhern, who plays the menace.

WEDELL BLASTS THROUGH ICY WEATHER TO BALTIMORE WITH CRITICALLY ILL HOUSTON CHILD

BALTIMORE, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Sue Trammell, five months old baby taken to Johns Hopkins early this morning after a 1,400-mile airplane dash from Houston, Texas, probably will undergo a brain operation within the next several days.

Dr. Walter E. Dandy, noted brain specialist, tentatively decided on the operation after an examination this afternoon. He confirmed the diagnosis that the baby had water on the brain.

Dr. Dandy said that the disease was very serious but that it often can be treated surgically with success. He declined to forecast the date of the operation, as that will be decided largely by the baby's condition.

The child's condition has been "satisfactory" since it reached the hospital shortly after two o'clock in the morning. The wind tossed flight from Houston in a big red monoplane piloted by James R. Wedell, well known speed flyer, appeared to have done her no harm.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Five-months-old Sue Trammell today waited in the Harriet Lane Clinic the experienced hand of Dr. Walter E. Dandy, noted brain specialist, to relieve the pressure on her brain and possibly save her life, after a hazardous airplane dash from Houston, Texas.

Braving strong icy winds and poor flying conditions, James R. Wedell, famous speed aviator, drove his red monoplane over the 1,400 mile trip in slightly more than 11 hours, bringing the plane with its sick baby down on snow-encrusted Logan Field here without mishap.

A municipal ambulance, waiting at the field at the order of Mayor Howard W. Jackson, rushed the child and her relatives who accompanied her to the Johns Hopkins Hospital where Dr. Paul A. Kunkel, resident in neuro-surgery, made the preliminary examination.

Deeming it not necessary to operate immediately, Dr. Kunkel diagnosed the child's ailment as hydro-cephalus, probably due to a congenital lesion. Hydro-cephalus is an infantile disease, described as an accumulation of watery fluid within the ventricles or between the membranes of the brain.

He said he did not believe the child had a tumor but would await an examination by Dr. Dandy.

"I didn't know what was the matter with Sue," said Mrs. W. B. Trammell, her mother, on arrival here, "except that she is very sick—and I hardly want to know."

Sue is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Trammell, their other child having died of a similar ailment.

Besides her parents, little Sue was accompanied on her plane flight by her grandmother, Mrs. W. W. Fondren, who is the wife of a wealthy Houston oil man; an uncle, W. W. Fondren, Jr., and her nurse, Miss Anne Swinson.

The baby became ill last Saturday when relatives noticed changes in the contour and size of her head. Houston physicians were called in and they, declining to diagnose the ailment, recommended she be brought to Baltimore for an operation by Dr. Dandy.

Wedell stepped into the picture shortly after noon yesterday. The New Orleans pilot, who holds several speed records, on an hour's notice, took off from Houston at 1:50 p. m. (C.S.T.), in a fast plane with the Trammell party.

After receiving reports from the Associated Press of the spectacular flight, Mayor Jackson placed the facilities of the city to aid the pilot and the family of the stricken child. The airport was ordered to turn on its flood lights and the municipal ambulance was sent there.

The first lap from Houston to New Orleans was expedited by Prince Louis Ferdinand, grandson of the former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, who with other passengers gave up their seats in the fast plane to the Trammell party.

JAZZ AND ENGLISH OPERA DEFENDED BY NEBRASKA COMPOSER

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Jazz music—if it's good—and the English opera have a staunch defender in Dr. Howard Hanson, Nebraska born composer and president of a Rochester, N. Y., conservatory.

Dr. John Erskine, noted author and head of another New York music school, added his support to the work of American composers as the two yesterday discussed the problems and achievements of musicians before several hundred persons attending the 55th annual convention of the Music Teachers National association.

"It is stupid to try to give operas in a language people can't understand," Hanson said, adding that English is a better language for composers than either French or German. He predicted that in 10 years the United States will lead the world in music.

"First rate jazz is as full of harmonic and orchestra interest as it is of rhythm," he declared while explaining that it is possible to have an appreciation for both jazz and classics and that it is stupid to condemn all jazz music.

Dr. Peter W. Dykema of Columbia said municipalities doubtless would be called upon in the future to furnish music halls, instruments and equipment for music, just as they are called upon now to furnish playgrounds and equipment for them to take up the play hours of children.

Rail-Commission Officials Attend Hearing on Wreck

HOUSTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Missouri Pacific headquarters here said today that officials of the railroad and representatives of the Interstate Commerce Commission would meet at Mart tomorrow to investigate the wreck near Calvert yesterday in which five men were killed.

Three members of the crew of a freight train and two transients riding in a refrigerator car were fatally injured when the train was derailed after striking some cattle roaming along the right of way.

I. C. C. representatives were reported to have gone to the scene today to inspect the track and make other preliminary examination.

Officials of the road estimated that the loss by damage to the engine and cars was approximately $16,000. They said that damage to commodities in the cars would not aggregate more than $2,500.

A HAPPY RECKONING

It is always a happy day of reckoning with us when we take into account the myriad words and deeds of kindness with which our large number of patrons and friends have endeared themselves to us during the current year.

The end of the old year most of all brings around this period of summing up accounts of friendship and estimating how much joy we are able to wish for others. We find from consulting the ledger of our heart that our patrons and friends are entitled to everything good we can possibly wish for them during the New Year.

So with a heart filled with gratitude for your many favors we offer our sincerest good wishes for a

HAPPY, PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR 1934!

SPORT CHAMPIONS AND TRADITIONS FEEL AXE DURING PAST YEAR

REVOLUTIONARY YEAR IN SPORTS BEEN CHRONICLED

CARL HUBBELL OF GIANTS PROVED BASEBALL'S 1933 HERO

BY ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

NEW YORK—(AP)—The campaign along the sports trails of 1933, one of the most astonishing of modern times, may best be remembered in years to come by the clarion call: "The winner and NEW champion."

Little or no respect for the great or the near great, for the titleholders or cup-bearers of sports, was manifest in any sphere of competition. The axe was weilded among the crowned heads with as much abandon as the tomahawks of an Indian tribe on the war-path. Favorites and tradition were given the old heave-ho separately and collectively in one of the most reolutionary years on athletic record.

It was "off with the old and on with the new" from one end of the year to the other. Old man Stagg went west after two score years at Chicago and Hunk Anderson yielded the traditions of Rockne to Elmer Layden after the most disastrous football campaign in the history of Notre Dame. New York kept the baseball championship on Broadway but the title passed from the Yankees to the Giants in one of the most dramatic shifts the national pastime has ever witnessed, featured by the superb southpaw pitching of Carl Hubbell—the "man of the year" in sports.

Pro Tennis Looks Up.

Davis Cup tennis supremacy passed from France to England, marking the end of a six-year reign for the tri-color and the collapse of the American challenge in Europe. Subsequently the twin aces of the beaten clans, Henri Cochet and Ellsworth Vines, turned professional and will join Big Bill Tilden in the biggest attempt so far to break the old barrier between amatur and pro in tennis.

Polo prestige passed from the old East to the Southwest in one of the most thrilling American battles of the year, with Cecil Smith and Elmer Boeseke Jr. challenging the dominant Tommy Hitchcock successfully. All four of the major men's golf titles of Britain and America changed hands, in addition to which the Ryder Cup, professional team trophy, passed from the U. S. A. to the old country because Denny Shute, the new British Open titleholder, missed a three-foot putt on the home green.

Four of the major professional ring championships changed ownership, one of them twice, as Jack Sharkey lost the world heavyweight crown to the gargantuan Primo Carnera of Italy, one-time circus freak and biggest titleholder since Jess Willard. Even wrestling's heavyweight actors caught the popular fever as the ex-Notre Dame fullback, Jumping Joe Savoldi, tossed Jim Londos at Chicago and gained a part-claim to the "championship."

Mrs. Moody Dethroned.

Strange as it may seem, women competitors wore most of the rare jewels of consistency for 1933. One of the most dramatic surprices of the year came swiftly in the final round of tennis play at Forest Hills where Helen Wills Moody, undefeated in the tournament for a decade, defaulted to her California rival, Helen Jacobs, for the American championship. Yet this enabled Miss Jacobs to be among the few successful defending champions of the year, besides having the distinction of starring in America's defense of the Wightman Cup against the challenge of the British team.

Equally noteworthy on the feminine side of the year's log is the fact that the only national champions to repeat were Virginia Van Wie of the U.S.A. and Enid Wilson of England. Miss Van Wie celebrated her second straight year of victory by conquering a field including Miss Wilson in the national women's golf championship at Chicago. Among the mermaids, Leonore Kight and little Katherine Rawls continued their consistently successful exploits in a swimming campaign marked by the passing of the great Helene Madison from amateur competition.

There was no diminution of the fastest miles of all time on foot, in land or air machines.

Lovelock's Amazing Race.

All things considered, probably the greatest, as well as one of the most thrilling individual achievements of 1933 was the victory of Oxford's Jack Lovelock over Princeton's Bill Bonthron in a one-mile footrace in which both smashed all world records to smithereens. Bonthron, greatest American college runner since John Paul Jones of Cornell, had not been defeated and was considered by particans well-night invincible up to that lazily pleasant July afternoon under the elms of Old Nassau. After setting the pace from the start, Bonthron was passed and beaten by seven yards in the stretch, as Lovelock broke the tape in the unprecedented time of 4 minutes, 7.6 seconds.. Bonthron's time of 4:08.7 also surpassed anything previously recorded in foot-racing history.

Even this marvelous track duel failed to obscure the fact that there are two other runners qualified to challenge either Lovelock or Bonthron or both at any time or any middle distance, measured in meters or yards. They are the barrel-chested boy from Kansas, Glenn Cunningham, national 1500 and mile champion, who has yet to match strides with his countryman, and Luigi Beccali of Italy, world champion at 1500 meters who likely will show his flying heels to indoor rivals on the American boards this winter.

Hubbell The Year's Hero.

Jack Lovelock, Carl Hubbell, Johnny Goodman and Fred Perry achieved the four greatest personal triumphs of the year, considering the pressure and the circumstances under which each rose to the top with his best performance. Hubbell [illegible] both major leagues with the finest record for effectiveness since 1916 and was the hero of the world series as the Giants completed one of the most striking marches in baseball annals. Goodman, best of the amateur golfers since Bob Jones retired, came flying through an all-star field to win the United States Open championship. Yet it was the irony of a turbulent season that the Nebraska youth himself was the victim of a major reversal in losing in the first round of the national amateur tournament to the veteran Chan Egan.

Perry, a bundle of tennis energy, overthrew Cochet to score the decisive Davis Cup triumph for Great Britain in the Challenge Round after he and Austin had put the American aces, Wilmer Allison and Ellsworth Vines, to route. Subseqetly the black haired Briton galloped through the field at Forest Hills to win the American singles championship, taking the measure of Australia's greatest stylist, Jack Crawford, in the second all-foreign final in United States tennis history.

The new deal in baseball marked as conspicuously by the decline of Babe Ruth and Company as by the dramatic ascension of the light-regarded Giants, was brought to a climax in December by the wholesale breakeup of Connie Mack's Athletics. It was estimated close to $300,000 worth of talent was sold by the old master, including the redoubtable Lefty Grove to the Boston Red Sox for around $100,-00. Meanwhile the batting king of the National league, Chuck Klein, was sold by the Phillies to the Chicago Cubs.

Irish, Trojans Fall Back

In college competition, where surprises are more the rule than the exception, the virtual collapse of Notre Dame's football fortunes—softened only by a sensational victory over Army—shared the spotlight with setbacks for Southern California's forces in track sports as well as on the gridiron. The Trojans, after hanging up their fourth consecutive victory in I. C. A. A. A. A. competition, fell before the surprising Louisiana State track team in the National Collegiates. Their football march was stopped by Stanford, which gave the football world something to argue about by selecting Columbia for opposition in the classic Rose Bowl game on New Year's Day.

The terrific struggle behind the scenes to balance the college athletic budgets, all but wrecked by the 1931-32 decline in gate receipts, appeared to be within reach of success. Though sporting businss in general, amateur or pro, still is far from the boom-time peak and is unlikely ever again to reach such gaudy levels, happier financial tidings came from several of the foremost sections of activity. They were climaxed by a big upturn in college football attendance during the closing months of the year, a prosperous indication also shared by the pro gridirons. On all sides the bitter lessons of depression appeared to have been well learned.

Although they offered many an exciting attraction, such as the nose victory of Broker's Tip over Head Play in the Kentucky Derby, the knockout triumph of Max Baer and Primo Carnera over Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey, as well as a highly dramatic world series, the professional sports of horse-racing, boxing and baseball failed to find much encouragement in their boxoffice statements.

Turf Sport Declines.

The turf was especially hard hit in New York, although its activities elsewhere spread to unprecedented proportions. Boxing's two biggest "gates" barely touched the $200,000 mark, including a world heavyweight title match, and Madison Square Garden's most strenuous efforts to apply the pulmotor seemed to produce little effect. Baseball, hard hit for the third straight year and forced to unload its star talent in such towns as Philadelphia because of financial reverses, nevertheless looked forward more optimistically to 1934 with Sunday baseball permitted for the first time in Pennsylvania and the Boston Red Sox rebult to pennant-contending proportions by new ownership.

Tragedy stalked through the scenes of strife. The mob was on its feet roaring "fake" as blond Ernie Schaaf sank to the floor of the Madison Square Garden ring in February from a left jab delivered by Primo Carnera. But Ernie never regained consciousness and died four days later from the combined effects of the beating he absorbed and a basic rain ailment. William Lawrence Stribling, heavyweight pride of the south and youthful veteran of 300 fights, died from injuries suffered in a motorcycle accident.

Two of the ring's most famous figures, Gentleman Jim Corbett and William Muldoon, 88-year-old "solid man," passed on. Baseball lost the colorful "Kid" Gleason and the popular president of the Cubs, William L. Veeck. Bill Roper, long-famous as Princeton's football coach, died and Rich Glendon, Columbia's brilliant rowing coach, was the victim of a fatal accident.

MEXICO EXPECTED TO BENEFIT MUCH FROM PRESIDENT'S PLAN TO BUY SILVER AT 64.5 Cents

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Mexico, as the world's leading producer of silver, is expected to be one of the major beneficiaries of President Roosevelt's program for United States purchase of the, white metal at 64.5 cents an ounce, 19 cents above recent prevailing price levels.

In recent years Mexico's output has averaged a total of some 105,000,000 ounces annually compared with a United States production of around 50,000,000 ounces. Canada has been third and Peru fourth in output.

Although the heavy decline in the price of silver, which started late in 1928, tended to diminish production in Mexico, the metal formed 15.9 per cent of the total value of that country's exports in 1929 and 12 per cent of the export value in 1930.

Practically all of Mexico's production of silver is exported, the United States and the United Kingdom being big importers. Moreover, a large proportion of Mexico's mines are owned or controlled by American capital which to a minor degree has silver holdings in Peru, Canada, Honduras and Chile.

Trade observers say the new silver setup may give some impetus to United States commerce with Mexico which now is Uncle Sam's best Latin-American customer, taking some $23,550,000 worth of goods in the first eight months of 1933.

United States exports to Mexico, which from 1929 to 1932 declined 76 per cent in value, have been picking up in recent months. A considerable part of the decline resulted from reductions in shipments of iron and steed mill products, machinery equipment and automobiles.

Silk hosiery exports in 1932 increased substantially in quantity as compared with 1931 and 1929 while cocoanut oil, sodium compounds, gasoline and fuel exports were larger than in 1931.

The effect of the new silver policy on the exchange value of Mexican currency in terms of purchase of American goods is problematical since the Mexican government has been following a program of keeping the peso devaluated with relation to the dollar for the purpose of stimulating exports.

Mexico is not de facto on the gold standard because there is no coinage of gold and the former gold coins are all demonetized. However, it is not on the silver standard since there is no free coinage of silver and Mexican silver coins may not be imported from abroad.

Currency experts here say the exchange value of Mexican currency does not fluctuate with the price of silver but is determined solely by the supply of and demand for exchange.

Economists Urge Return To Gold Standard Quickly

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The executive committee of the economic national committee on monetary policies today adopted a resolution calling on the federal administration to "end manipulation of the dollar" and adopt "a definite policy of return to the gold standard."

The resolution, which was signed by 17 economists, disapproved "those aspects of the monetary policy of the government which are destroying public confidence in the value of the dollar, are distorting the normal movement of investment funds, and discouraging sound investments, thereby retarding an orderly and enduring recovery."

"The present policy of monetary experimentation should be abandoned immediately," the resolution urged.

Rainey Predicts Harmonious And Short Session

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Prediction of a short and harmonious session of congress with emphasis placed on appropriation and revenue bills was made today by Speaker Rainey after calling on President Roosevelt.

A while before, Senator Connally (D-Tex.) told newspapermen he had informed President Roosevelt that congress and the people were behind him on his commodity dollar program and would support it.

In a statement, Representative Greenwood of Indiana, the democratic whip, asserted that house members believe "the crisis has been passed and that we are on the way out of the depression."

Rainey said he did not believe there would be any serious consideration given to permanent legislation, even including regulation of railroads and of the stock exchanges, as has been freely forecast. Senator Connally said he would move to include cattle as a basic commodity under the agriculture adjustment act.

Inclusion of cattle is favored also by Secretary Wallace and legislation in this direction is generally predicted at this session.

Connally predicted congress would insist upon the reserve system surrendering its gold.

"I told the President I am strong as horse-radish for his dollar devaluation program," said Connally. "Congress and the people are behind him on his money program and will stand by him."

NEWSPAPER CODE STILL UNSIGNED BY PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The newspaper code, along with other important NRA agreements, remained today at the white house without definite indications as to how soon the chief executive would order it into effect.

The code, as finally proposed by the American Newspaper Publishers' association, provides a slightly different employment basis from the one now controlling through operation of the president's reemployment agreement.

A 40-hour week is established for mechanical workers except where existing contracts or shortage of labor require longer time. Clerical employes are to work a maximum of 40 hours in cities above 500,000 population; 44 hours in thsoe above 25,000 and 48 hours in cities below that figure.

Minimum wages follow closely the reemployment agreement scale with a range of $15 to $11 for salaried workers, on a population basis, and a 40 cents an hour minimum for mechanical workers.

No hour regulations are contained for editorial employes but provision is made for a survey to determine how they shall be fixed.

The code is to apply to all newspapers except such small ones as are operated in conjunction with commercial printing plants. The latter will be placed under the graphic arts code covering the various branches of printing.

"WARM AND DRY" FORECAST IN REMAINDER CENTURY IS MADE BEFORE SCIENCE CONVENTION

By F. B. COLTON
Associated Press Science Writer.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 28.—(AP)—A "warm and dry" weather forecast for the rest of the twentieth century and a warning of a coming period of disastrous droughts were issued by a weather specialist today before the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Playing a role much like the Biblical Joseph who warned the Egyptians of "lean years" to come, H. W. Clough of Arcade, N. Y., told the scientists that along about the turn of the century "there are likely to be prolonged and disastrous droughts, possibly causing extensive migrations of people now inhabiting relons that border upon deserts."

These great droughts will result, he said, from the fact that four great weather cycles controlled by the sun will synchronize somewhere around the year 2,000. At that period the hot, dry phases of each of the four cycles all will strike the earth at about the same time. The cycles are 37, 83, and 1,400 years in length, the short ones repeating themselves several times during one long one, with weather swinging alternately from hot and dry ot cold and wet through each.

The United States is now having exceptionally warm weather because the warm, dry phases of a 37-year and 83-year cycle are now roughly coinciding, Clough said.

"Around 1950 or 1955, the weather will be considerably cooler and wetter than at present," he added. "However, it is possible that the present century as a whole will prove to be exceptionally warm and dry as compared with the past two centuries."

The United States and foreign countries have been growing warmer in general since the 1860's Clough said, culminating in January, 1932, which was the warmest January in 155 years in at least one section. Coupled with the increasing warmth have been recent severe droughts which still continue in many regions.

ANONYMOUS CALL CLAIMED GIVE NAME MAN HAVING MONEY

HOUSTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Charles Heidingsfelder, Jr., told police that he had received an anonymous telephone call purporting to reveal who had the $34,500 assertedly taken from his father, a Houston attorney, in a robbery here Christmas Day.

A check of the city and telephone directories, however, failed to disclose the name mentioned by the anonymous caller, Heidingsfelder said.

"A man who refused to identify himself called me and told me that a contractor here whom he named had the money or should have it," Heidingsfelder said. "However, there is no such name in the telephone or city directory."

Police were investigating.

The grand jury meanwhile resumed its inquiry into the case.

HOCKEY CLUB OWNER HELD; SAYS CHECK CHARGE SHAKEDOWN

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Kay Iversen, owner of the Tulsa American Hockey Association Club, was held in jail here today on a Wichita, Kan., bad check charge as his attorney hurled accusations of an attempted police shakedown for free hockey tickets and prepared a petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

Iversen was arrested last night at the Coliseum while the Oilers were beating out a 4 to 3 victory over St. Louis in an overtime game.

Captain George Stewart made the arrest 12 hours after arrival of a telegram from Wichita saying a warrant was being mailed here. Iversen had refused to admit the bulk of the police to the games free.

The telegram said Iversen had given a "no funds" check to a hotel where the Tulsa team stopped while playing the now disbanded Wichita team. Guy Manatt, Iversen's attorney, said the hotel was told by Iversen the check was not good at the time but would be redeemed this week. Manatt said efforts to reach the hotel management by telephone last night failed and the check could not be paid by wire.

H. W. Porter, pass gate attendant at the Coliseum, also was arrested after he refused to admit three plain clothes officers free.

The charge filed was " an officer." Porter later leased without bond.

BAKERY QUINT IN STIRRING VICTORY OVER PURDON FIVE

The strong Collin Street Bakery five, second place winner of the first half of the city Major Basketball league, took a 36-32 decision from Purdon High school, winner of the sixth annual Y. M. C. A. invitation basketball tournament, at the Y court Wednesday night in a fast exhibition game. Hightower of the bakers and Farmer, of Purdon shared the scoring honors, with six field goals each, for 12 points. Norton, rangy Purdon center was second with nine tallies, and followed by G. Pollard and M. Pollock, who accounted for eight each for the bakers.

110-MILE TRAIN SPEED

American railroads operate 50,000 passenger cars, costing $30,000 each, 4,000 dining cars costing $50,000 each and thousands of locomotives and freight cars running the total cost of their rolling stock into billions of dollars. Within a short time all of the rolling stock used in passenger service, including the latest type locomotive, will be junked; railroad men say.

This promised revolution in railroading will be brought about by the development of new streamlined, light-weight passenger trains capable of averaging 110 miles an hour under gasoline locomotion. These trains of the future will weigh less than a third as much as the typical train of today.

And when one speaks of the "future" it is of tomorrow, not of a fabulous future. Railroads are already building trains after this amazing model and will have them in operation in a matter of months.

Railroad possibilities as a result of this development include faster railroad transportation, lower rates, heavier schedules, the return to the rails of much business lost to the air and road, and the revolutionizing of the whole railroad industry.

Competition against which the railroads have ranted for years is responsible for this step forward. Necessity is the mother of invention.

BULWARK

Reports that savings bank deposits are down 11.8 per cent from the 1932 level and 24.8 per cent under the 1930 high provoke no amazement, unless it is that the decline was not greater. The cause for surprise is that four years of depression and general unemployment have not wiped out the nation's savings in their entirety.

The latest total of deposits in banks and trust companies is $21,424,226,000 just $7,000,000,000 below the high point for all time. Add to this the country's postal savings the savings in insurance policies and the hoardings of millions who place their trust in a mattress or china bowl and it does not appear that we as a people are penniless.

Where did those seven billions go? the bankers ask. Part of the decline is represented by hoarding, part by closed banks, part by postal savings, part by burdensome tax levies and part by emergency demands upon the savings of the unemployed.

How can one contemplate such figures and assume the hopeless attitude of the pessimist who calls the conditions of today the normal of the future? Here alone is foundation enough for a new era of prosperity once we round off a few obstructing boulders.

Hardly to be called improvident wastrels are a people who can cling tenaciously to a score of billions in savings at a time when it would seem that every penny is needed for the bare necessities of life.

Governor Rolph, of California, repeats that he will pardon persons convicted of lynching. That's playing safe since political enemies who might like to lynch him might not find his successor so gracious.

If the marathon idea was a product of ancient Greek culture, that culture has been highly overrated.

It would be more exact to say that a dollar would go farther today, instead of "a dollar goes farther."

CARE

Through every life there runs the thread of care
That winds and twists itself about the years;
High place or low, it everywhere appears.
Not long can man walk pleasure's thoroughfare.
Upon his shoulders burdens, he must bear,
Know doubt and disappointment, failure's fears,
And soon or late, pale sorrow's bitter tears,
For time from these no favorite will spare.

Nor wealth nor place nor power can keep away
The common griefs which age insists upon;
Man must have faith and courage to be gay.
The joy he seeks is bravely to be won.
Who reads the book of life may be assured
The happiest hearts have many an ache endured.

NON-INTERFERENCE IN CUBA

It is a hostile country that interferes with the domestic affairs of another nation, that repudiates its obligations to another nation. It is a friendly country that respects the sovereignty of other nations, their right to their own political theories, the sanctity of their property and nationals.

Cuba will find the United States a friendly country, rather than a hostile one, once its new government displays any degree of stability and authority at home. The recalling of our official representative to Havana and the sending of an unofficial observer in his place leaves Cuba to her own resources and to work out her own salvation.

The Grau government asked for the recall of Welles on the ground that he was in sympathy with the insurgents. A few weeks ago the heads of the Grau government were insurgents asking for sympathy in Washington; now they object to our extending such sympathy to others.

Stability and peace will come again to Cuba with the return of a measure of prosperity and whatever government is then in the saddle will find Washington friendly and helpful. The only thing Washington is waiting for now is to see whether the Grau government is a government or just a passing whim.

NEW TAXES LOOM

Hearings now being held by the house ways and means committee and subcommittees in Washington will largely determine the tax legislation to be enacted by congress when it convenes next month. These hearings are in a sense "trial balloons" sent up to feel the temper of the taxpayers.

Several federal levies will die a natural death on January 1 due to the repeal of prohibition, but that is no guarantee that the whiskey tax will be the only new levy. What the administration has in mind is not definitely known.

If the white house is contemplating jacking up the income tax rates it will make such a move most unpopular. Representative Bacharach, of New Jersey, struck a popular chord when he urged the house ways and means committee to reduce rather than increase the tax on small incomes, which he contends are already overburdened. The recipient of a small salary is paying more than his share of the weight if he is paying an income tax on top of dozens of other direct and indirect levies.

His suggestion that the administration retain the capital stock and excess profits taxes could not be accepted without considerable embarassment in view of the fact that they are among the taxes the white house promised to do away with if the voters would do away with prohibition.

Congressional confessions that tax reduction is impossible at this time do not bring disappointment. John Smith, taxpayer, has been expecting anything but that.

Just why a German dispatch reciting that a Communist had been sentenced to death for shooting a Nazi storm trooper should be considered news worth cable tolls is not clear. Maybe it was the fact that a trial was given the shooter.

LAW AND COMMON SENSE

A refreshing example of a court's refusing to permit trifling technicalities to save criminals from paying for their crimes has been given in Chicago. It constitutes another feather in the cap of this city in the latter's efforts to rid itself of the unsavory reputation it has held for several years as being one of the country's most lawless cities.

A gangster had been acquitted on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon on his person. The weapon was not on his person in the sense of being concealed in his clothing. It was in a golf bag swung over his shoulder. The defendant's attorney maintained, and successfully before the lower court, that technically the weapon was not on his person.

An appellate court reversed the findings, holding that the presence of the concealed weapon within reach of the defendant brought the offense within the meaning of the statutes against carrying concealed weapons.

This was a common sense interpretation of the law of the kind needed if headway is to be made in America's war on crime. When courts generally adopt this attitude a surprising improvement in crime conditions may be expected to follow.

EXPECTING TOO MUCH

Isn't the present situation as to national affairs one of those "solecisms of power" of which Bacon wrote? They consist of "thinking to command the end yet not to endure the mean."

All can see the goal and desire it but many refuse to suffer the hardships which are the cost of its attainment. They want the millennium handed to them on a silver platter, and probably in bed.

The government can ask for patriotic co-operation at a time like this but must not expect it from everybody. Remember the complaining and whining about the high cost of living when everybody was doing his part to win the war. Patriots like to win wars but doing without sugar in one's coffee is asking too much of a non-combatant.

After the first flush of victory the NRA struck formidable snags which retarded its progress. They were the signal that from that point it was up to the people to carry on by hard work, drudgery and, often, at great sacrifice. Willing and wide co-operation must supplant the grumblings at the slow progress and the special claims and separate privileges.

PRESIDENT IS NOT SURPRISED RESULT TREASURY DEFICIT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(AP)—President Roosevelt displayed no surprise today at the latest treasury statement showing a deficit in government finances of a billion dollars and it was reported at the White House the figure would mount even higher as a result of the recovery program.

The Chief Executive was said authoritatively to be interested in making certain that income in revenue keeps pace with the normal current expenditures and he understands this income and outgo is about on an even basis.

Continuing his preparation of the budget to be submitted to congress next week, President Roosevelt called in Henry Morgenthau, acting secretary of the treasury, and Lewis Douglass, budget director.

Mr. Roosevelt told newspapermen at his press conference that he has not started writing his budget message nor his message on the state of the Union to be read to Congress on the opening day, January 3.

Asked to give his views on

past events and predictions of those to come at the turn of the year, the President replied that he was willing to let the same old forecasters do the job and continue to be the goat.

Simultaneously, the government continued the price of domestic gold at $34.06 an ounce. It was the seventh successive time this figure had been announced.

As to foreign trade, the department of commerce reported a favorable balance of $56,000,000 for November—$184,000,000 in goods going abroad while $128,000,000 came in.

Deposit Guarantees.

Another development was an estimate by Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the Deposit Insurance corporation, that the temporary guarantee fund becoming effective next week "will completely guarantee 97 per cent of the bank accounts of the nation."

Cummings termed the insurance of deposits up to $2,500, which starts January 1, "the most constructive plan ever devised for the protection of bank deposits."

The exact amount of the deficit given in the latest announcement of the treasury's condition dated December 22 was $1,024,121,667. On the same date last year the deficit was $1,593694,753.

Figures Quoted.

Ordinary expenditures were within receipts, but those classified by the administration as "emergency" exceeded the amount of the deficit.

Receipts since July 1 the beginning of the fiscal year, were $1,440,193,463 as compared with $1,000,209,302 for last year's corresponding period.

Ordinary expenditures were $1,425,424,842 and emergency expenditures $1,038,890,288.

Biggest items in the emergency classification were $531,841,000 for the RFC, $204,301,000 for the Public Works administration and $146,810,000 for the Conservation Corps. The Civil Works administration had taken $53,842,000 and the farm adjustment administration $38,57.,000.

Illinois Drops Ad Valorem Tax

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 27.—(AP)—Illinois today abolished its state tax on property, which last year was 50 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation.

Revenues from property will be replaced next year by the two per cent retail sales tax.

The decision was announced by the board, consisting of Governor Horner, State Treasurer John C. Martin and State Auditor Edward J. Barnett, at its annual meeting.

"The elimination of the state tax lifts a burden of approximately $35,000,000 from the taxpayers in 1934," Gov. Horner said.

"FLYING ACES" TO STAGE AERIAL SHOW HERE NEXT SUNDAY

Featuring many acts never before shown in this section of the country, the "Flying Aces" a troupe of 15 nationally famous men and women pilots and stunt performers, will stage their famous aerial circus here Sunday afternoon, Dec. 31, under the auspices of the Johnson-Wiggins Post No. 22 American Legion, at the municipal airport at 2:30 it was announced today.

Fifteen daring and spectacular air and ground events are listed on the two-hour program, and two of the feature performers will be C. W. Whittenback and Carl Winstead. Whittenback will do outside loops, inverted figure eights and up-side-down flying. Winstead will do a specialty act, going aloft, cutting off his motor and then spinning, looping, barrel-rolling, whipstalling and landing without re-starting his motor at any time.

In another feature attraction, Danny Rippe, world famous German parachute jumper will go aloft 12,000 feet and drop within 2000 feet of the ground before opening his parachute. As he leaves the plane he will release a stream of flour in order to enable spectators to follow his course as he hurtles through space back to earth.

Other pilots and performers will thrill with stunting contests, air races, formation flights, balloon bursting serpentine cutting contests, an airplane tug-of-war bombing of an automobile from the air, and looping and barrel-rolling a plane with Miss Jessie Martin standing on the top wing.

On the ground Rocky Moran will ride a motorcycle through a solid inch burning board well staked to the ground, in front of the audience.

CHAMBER COMMERCE DIRECTORS PLANNED FOR ANNUAL MEET

INTERNAL AFFAIRS OF ORGANIZATION OCCUPIED WEDNESDAY SESSION

Internal affairs of the organization, incuding the annual meeting and the nominating committee for the coming year as well as public affairs occupied the directors of the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce at their regular meeting Wednesday morning.

The report of the auditor, H. W. Regester, was read, approved and ordered filed. Secretary Harry C. Howard presented the report of the membership efforts in recent weeks, showing 16 new members, four donors, two increased memberships, and five resignations.

President C. C. Roberts named a nominating committee to select a list of men from which the eight new directors will be elected for two year terms. The committee includes J. M. Dyer, Sr., chairman; Beauford H. Jester, R. L. Hamilton, Ted B. Ferguson and Lowry Martin. An introductory committee which will assist the new secretary in becoming acquainted with the business men of the city, composed of W. P. McCammon, chairman; Ted B. Ferguson, J. N. Garitty, and N. Suttle Roberts.

W. P. McCammon was also named general chairman of the arrangements for the annual membership meeting, which is scheduled about the third Tuesday in February.

Invited Attend Bridge Hearing.

The directors were invited to attend the hearing on the bridge across Trinity river at Wildcat Ferry to be held in Palestine on Thursday morning and the importance of the project was stressed.

Lowry Martin suggested that the highway department should be asked to erect their highway signs in such a manner as to direct traffic to Corsicana and not through Corsicana. The directors instructed the president and secretary to take the proper action. Other highway matters were presented but no action taken.

A letter from President Roosevelt to NRA committeemen was read, thanking the men for their services and asking them to continue to function until such a time as the county emergency councils could be completed to work with the national emergency council.

"The Birthday Ball for the President," slated for January 30, with the purpose of raising funds for the additional endowment of the Warm Springs Foundation, was presented and after considerable discussion it was decided to instruct the president to name a local chairman for the movement. President Roberts designated Lowry Martin as chairman of the celebration plans.

When a suggestion was made that the annual meeting of the chamber and the celebration be held jointly, Secretary Howard outlined his suggestions for the program for the annual meeting, which would include the regular business of the chamber and the presentation of a program of activities, with special emphasis on co-operating with the agricultural interests of the county.

Clears Up Sluggish Feeling

"I have used Thedford's Black-Draught for constipation for a long time," writes Mrs. Frank Champion, of Wynne, Ark.

"If I get up in the morning feeling dull and sluggish, a dose of Black-Draught taken three times a day will cause the feeling to pass away, and in a day or two I feel like a new person. After many years of use we would not exchange Black-Draught for any medicine."

Ickes Seeking Names Hot Oil Guilty Pleas

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes, the oil administrator, today telegraphed an agent of the interior department's bureau of investigation in Texas to furnish him the names of oil producers who have pleaded guilty to producing "hot oil" and paid fines out of court.

Interior department officials explained that the cases had been scheduled to come before State courts and that the names were not immediately available in Washington.

It was understood that in one case in October a producer paid a fine of $16,000 or $500 per day for each day of alleged violation of the "hot oil" prohibition.

This one case and two or three during the past few days were said by interior department officials to be the only ones which they knew of which had been settled on guilty pleas and fines out of court.

The secretary expects to make public the names of producers who have paid fines when he receives them from Texas.

Let
the car speak
for itself

HUNDREDS of thousands of people now own and drive Ford V-8 cars. Some neighbor or friend of yours has one. If we told you what we think of the car, you might say we are prejudiced, so we let the car and its owner tell you.

Economy of operation is one of the first points they will emphasize—the owner will boast of it and the car will prove it.

The 1934 car is even better than the 1933—and that was our best car up to its time. The new car is more beautiful—faster—more powerful—gives more miles to the gallon—better oil economy—is easier riding—cheaper to own and operate than any car we ever built.

You owe it to yourself and your pocketbook to ask our Ford Dealer to let you see this car, and let you drive it for yourself. At the wheel of the car you will be sure to reach a right decision. The Ford V-8 will tell you its own story.

THE NEW YEAR

There is no time like the first of the New Year to start towards a definite goal. It is only by settling upon a definite time to start, and a definite place to go, that progress is made.

FUNERAL SERVICES IN BLOOMING GROVE FOR GEORGE MABRY

BLOOMING GROVE, Dec. 28.—(Spl.)—Funeral services for Geo. R. Mabry, age 62 years, native of Blooming Grove who died at the Navrro Clinic Wednesday, were held from the First Methodist church here Thursday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. Paul [illegible], pastor. Burial was in Ros[illegible] Hill cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, and one son, Victor Mabry, Dallas and other relatives.

Pallbearers were W. T. Reid, H. S. Wharton, J. I. Saunders, R. S. High, J. T. Glenn and J. P. Johnson.

Hunt Expecting Be Saved From Electric Chair

HUNTSVILLE, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Dewey Hunt, 27, scheduled to walk to the electric chair just after midnight for the slaying of a street car motorman in Dallas, more than five years ago, remained outwardly confident today that Governor Miriam A. Ferguson would grant him last minute clemency.

Two days ago, Hunt had seen Paul Mitchell, convicted Lubbock robber, saved from the chair for another month by the governor eight hours before his scheduled electrocution. A short time previously two of three Houston men slated to be electrocuted had been given 30-day reprives on the last day.

Hunt was one of three men whose executions had been set for early tomorrow. The others were Carl Stewart, 24, and Clarence Booker, 25, negroes.

ROBBERY

last night detained a 54-year-old man for investigation in connection with the robbery. The man emphatically asserted his innocence and offered to produce any number of witnesses to show he had been in Itasca all of yesterday. The man was known to members of the police force at Fort Worth as a law-abiding citizen. He was taken to Marlin for questioning.

The bank employes, after freeing themselves from the trees, went to the home of a farmer, Sam Dolehite, about a mile and a half from the pasture, and telephoned the sheriff's office at Marlin. Then Dolehite took them into Rogers and they were later brought back to Marlin.

Followed Into Bank.

Bradshaw said he had just entered the bank yesterday morning when one of the robbers came in behind him, telling him if he "made a bad move it would be dangerous."

"[illegible] made me walk ahead of him to a stool, where I was sitting when Shaw Spencer, Marlin mail carrier, later saw me," Bradshaw related. "The other man told me to keep my head down. He came in but went right out and stood in front of the bank.

"The bandit covering me asked me the combination of the vault. I told him I didn't know it. A few minutes later the negro porter walked in and my escort pointed a pistol at him and told him to lie down. He was behind the rail.

"Mr. Spencer came in to deliver the mail and I thought he would see the porter, but I guess he did not. When the postman entered the bank, the bandit told me not to make a move or it would be too bad. We exchanged some words with Spencer about the weather.

Girl Comes In.

"Miss Peyton, the bookkeeper, was the last to enter the bank. By that time the other man had come in again. He made Miss Peyton take the seat where I had been, told the porter not to move, and the first bandit made me walk ahead of him to the vault.

"The cashier sets the time lock and I did not think it was time for it to be opened. I turned the combination and the vault opened. Both men came in to the vault and while one stood guard, they piled the money into a sack they had brought with them. When the money was gathered up, they made us walk ahead of them to a car at the rear of the bank.

Bradshaw told how they were loaded in the car and, with their heads down, driven for about two and a half hours before reaching the pasture

Identify Photos of Marlin Bank Robbers

MARLIN, Dec. 28.—(AP)—D. N. Davis, deputy sheriff, said today that Lee Humphrey, negro porter kidnaped with two other employes by the robbers of the First State Bank here, had identified from a photograph one of the men as Irvin (Blacky) Thompson, escaped convict and partner of W. J. (Whitey) Walker.

Walker's photograph was identified by P[illegible] Bayer, Marlin tailor, as the man he saw in a cafe at 6 a. m. yesterday, about two hours before the robbery and abduction.

M[illegible] Bradshaw, vice-president of [illegible] bank, and Miss Andrew [illegible] 28, bookkeeper, whisked [illegible] with the porter, said they [illegible]ly two robbers but said [illegible]ld them there were four [illegible].

[illegible]lker, his wife, Dolores Walker; Roy A. Johnson, Thompson and Nick Prince recently were indicted for the $4,300 robbery of the Robinson State Bank at Palestine Oct. 26.

World Governments Experiment in Economics To Hasten Recovery's Progress During 1934

President Roosevelt, Chancellor Hitler of Germany and Maxim Litvinoff, foreign commissar of the Soviet Union, were dominant figures in the news of the world during 1933.

By SMITH REAVIS
Associated Press Foreign Staff

SMITH REAVIS

Nineteen thirty-four promises to be a year of world experimentation in economics and government as statesmen seek to speed the end of one of history's longest and stiffest hard-time spells.

A lot of 1933's international headaches are prominent on the sheet of unfinished business.

First of all, leaders face the problem of dislocated media of exchange with two major and many minor theories at clash. Happy days, they all agree, won't come again until commerce can move in undisturbed and unimpeded channels.

In the United States President Roosevelt proposes to raise basic purchasing ability, and commodity prices, by the use of a "managed" currency.

In Italy Premier Mussolini will lower wages and prices in one sweeping operation in the hope that thereby Italy may compete in the world's marts.

Americas Assail Tariffs

France sticks to the gold standard and calls for monetary stabilization throughout the world.

In the Americas tariff barriers are being attacked by bi-lateral bargaining, as proposed by Cordell Hull, United States secretary of state, at the Pan-American conference in Montevideo. The nations of the western continents will seek a solution of the troublesome debts question in an economic gathering at Santiago, Chile.

Europe, anxious to sell its products abroad and thus fill the domestic dinner pail, clings to its tariffs and quotas as bargaining points. Mr. Roosevelt has indicated a disposition to do some bartering himself—with wines and liquors as the first bait.

Most statesmen feel that the closing months of 1933 marked at least a slight upturn from the business stagnation of last winter and spring. World unemployment has decreased, if only slightly; many basic commodity prices have risen; some world surpluses have been reduced.

Big Conferences Futile

Politically there are many of the old 1933 snags in the 1934 channel. The conference system didn't work so well in the 12 months just ended; witness adjournment of the London Economic sessions of last spring and summer and the later disarmament meet at Geneva, the former with undefined results and the latter a failure.

The world will try it again, however, with another attempt, to make disarmament, or rather arms limitation, something of a reality.

The League of Nations faces its most crucial test. Already weakened by the withdrawal of two—Germany and Japan—of its five great power members, it views with alarm Italy's warning that radical changes are necessary or she too will step out.

Diplomatic discussions of the proposed reform, which Italy would have include a separation of the Versailles treaty from the league covenant, already are under way.

Some statesmen profess to see a ray of hope in the dying down of European war-scare talk and the preoccupation of governmental leaders in the business of establishing peace.

Three Outstanding Leaders

Three dominant figures of the year—Roosevelt, Chancellor Hitler of Germany and Maxim Litvinoff, astute foreign commissar of the Soviet Union—have lifted their voices in testimony of their desire for international cooperation rather than war.

Hitler, in almost the same breath that he told of Germany's withdrawal from the league and the disarmament conference, held out an olive branch to France in the form of a bi-lateral settlement of differences. It was sniffed at gingerly, but the diplomatic talks have begun.

Litvinoff, his year crowned with success by American recognition and the negotiation of pacts of friendship and commerce with neighboring European states plans further aggressive participation in world affairs. Under Rome's plan of changes, Russia would join the other great powers at the league's green table.

Trouble Spots Persist

With Japan's position in Manchuria consolidated, if not regularized, and with an apparent lessening of tension between Japan and Russia, there appears hope for better days in the Pacific. Some Tokyo trial balloons have indicated the possibility of direct conversations between Japan and the United States to iron out causes of irritation.

One possible trouble spot on the horizon in Austria, whose little chancelor, Engelbert Dollfuss, has chosen the dictator's path between the blandishments of nazilsm and fascism and the demands of the socialists. His final choice has not yet been made, but he has made it clear that Austria's independence—and by that he meant no domination from Berlin—must be assured.

Should he fail, and Germany and Austria combine in the much discussed "anschluss," chancelleries must work fast to avoid an European explosion.

PROMINENT WEST TEXAS RANCHER AND BANKER IN COLORADO

COLORADO, Tex., Dec. 28.—(AP)—W. L. Ellwood, 75, rancher and banker who went along with the tradition of the South Plains of Texas from a cow country to a vast agricultural area, died in a hotel today from a heart ailment.

He had breakfast at 7 a. m., and was sitting in the lobby when the attack occured. Bellboys and Wade Scott, clerk, assisted him to his room on the fourth floor. Ellwood later called Otto Jones manager of the Render Brook ranch 28 miles South of Colorado that he was not feeling well but would drive to the ranch as soon as he felt like it.

About 8 o'clock as he sat in bed, he said, "catch me, I am gone," and he died before a physilcan who had been called could arrive.

Ellwood not only was a cattle man, with property in Mitchell and Lubbock counties, but is a director of the Citizens' National Bank at Lubbock and has interests in banks at DeKalb, Ill.

The body will lie in state until tomorrow when it will be sent to DeKalb or interment.

Survivors were two daughters, Mrs. Leland Keeney of Summerville, Conn., and Mrs. Frank Chappell of New London, Conn.; two sisters, Mrs. Edward Mayo of DeKalk and Mrs. J. G. Bonney of Denver, and a brother, Perry Ellwood of DeKalb and several children.

Ellwood was the son of I. L. Ellwood, founder of the Ellwood barbed wire fence manufactured at DeKalb. The concern also manufactured hog wire, nails and staples.

For County Clerk:

In another portion of the paper will be found the formal announcement of L. C. (Bridge) Morgan as a candidate for re-election as County Clerk of Navarro County.

Many friends and acquaintances of Mr. Morgan who have had dealings with him personally and officially believe that in the event of his re-election, the affairs of this important office will be handled in the future in the same efficient, courteous and business-like manner that has characterized the conduct of the County Clerk's office during his tenure of service.

Mr. Morgan is a man of family, and life long resident of Navarro County. His friends believe that the manner in which he has conducted the affairs of his office entitles him to the serious consideration of the voters of Navarro County in the approaching democratic primaries.

Due to his experience as County Clerk, Mr. Morgan's friends and supporters believe that with the continuing of him in office that he will be able to give the county an even more efficient and economical administration of the office.

Your careful consideration of Mr. Morgan's candidacy is earnestly requested.

New Year Dawn Of New Era View From President

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—President Roosevelt expressed the view today that "we enter the new year with a realization that we have crossed the threshold of a new era."

This was contained in a letter he wrote to Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. The letter said:

"The dawn of a new year always is a challenge. It suggests new opportunities. It is characterized by inventories, accountings of past performances, making of new estimates and resolutions.

"We enter upon the new year with a realization that we have crossed the threshold of a new era. We have the opportunity of improving conditions and making our country a better home, materially and spiritually, for more than 120,000,000 people.

"To do this will require the concerted aid and continued efforts of many forces—of government, federal state and local; of social, spiritual, industrial and financial agencies.

"I welcome this opportunity to express my thanks for the splendid co-operation which you and members of the General Federation of Women' Clubs have given to me and the government.

"Your support of the measures initiated by the government to end the terrible depression and to establish social justice and economic security for all of our people has been and is a real influence for the good we have been able to accomplish.

"I ask that we, men and women of the present and the new generations, continue to work together. With such united effort, we can attain strength and force necessary to cure existing ills and give us a new national health and prosperity."

For Sheriff.

In another place in today's paper will be found the formal announcement of Rufus Pevehouse as candidate for re-election to the office of sheriff of Navarro county subject to the action of the democratic primaries.

Sheriff Pevehuse needs no introduction to the voters of this county of which he is a native. He is a married man and holds the respect and confidence of all who know him. He is a fearless officer, putting duty first at all times and is ever alert in the execution of all matters pertaining to his office.

During his term of office he has made a record to which his friends point with pride.

Although Sheriff Pevehouse has practiced economy in every possible way in the conduct of his office he has in no way impaired its efficiency. Under his direction a staff of competent deputies have made Navarro county one of the most orderly counties in the state with a minimum of law violations.

Sheriff Pevehouse is not only known in Navarro county as an efficient peace officer by his ability in handling and tracking down criminals is recognized throughout the state where he is held in highest regard by his brother officers.

A man of clean personal habits, honest and sincere in the performance of his duties Sheriff Pevehouse has proven himself a valuable asset to the community he serves and his many friends strongly endorse his candidacy for re-election.

Serious consideration of his candidacy is urged by his supporters when casting your ballot for the important office of sheriff of Navarro county.

WHITE HANDS.

Delicate-Looking Hands.

If your hands are ugly and red, follow the advice Miss Forbes gives today for methods of bleaching them so they will look dainty again.

It is embarrassing to have red hands, ugly and often uncomfortable. If you are the unfortunate possessor of such hands, there are several methods of dealing with the trouble. One way is to buy fairly expensive, ready-made hand-whitening lotions, use them on the hands at night, and pull over the hands special medicated gloves. A much ceaper way is to pay 25 cents for a pair of cheap heavy white cotton gloves or 75 cents for white chamois which comes with holes for the knuckles.

You are supposed, of course, to wear these gloves while you sleep. Personally, I would find sleep quite impossible, and I think most women would feel the same. But it would be more comfortable and quite as practical to wear the gloves during the day while you work.

Assuming you do housework, begin by spreading the hands thickly with almond or olive oil or kitchen lard or the various cooking fats made from vegetable oil. These are all very nourishing. Pull on rubber gloves and do all your wet work first, such as dishwashing and bath room floors, and so on. At the end of this pull off the gloves inside out, throw the minto a basin of warm, soapy water to be cleaned, and as you scrub the grease off them, you will also wash the surplus from your hands.

Now dry the hands and apply a whitening lotion. Cover your hands with chamois gloves and go on with your housework. One old-fashioned hand bleach is very effective. You mix together a teaspoonful of honey and a teaspoonful of glycerine and add it to the beaten white of an egg. When it is all mixed, add enough powdered oatmeal to make a paste which is not too stiff. Spread this thickly over the hands and rub it well into the skin. With this it is better to wear loose rubber gloves rather than cotton, which will absorb the moisture.

One-third lemon juice to two-thirds white vinegar is also a good bleach.

Mrs. J. L.—Henna is always red but you may darken it slightly by adding a little indigo blueing to it. The tea you make from the leaves is probably just as effective as the pastes made from the powder. One way of using it is to make the last rinse after the shampoo very colorful from the henna brew and just wet the hair thoroughly with it. This will give a very slight tint to your natural color without altering the shade. Another method is to add the powder to the soap lather and use this for the shampoo, letting it remain on the hair anywhere from five to 30 minutes, according to the amount of coloring you desire. Proceed then as with any other method of shampooing. The other method is to make a hot henna paste, and after shampooing and with hair still moist, cover the entire head of hair with this paste made of nothing but the plain henna with hot water. Cover the head and let the paste remain for a half hour, or even for an hour. Rinse all of it off the hair and champoo again. This last method is for complete dyeing of the hair to a henna color. When using the white of an egg as an astringent, weaken it down with about five times as much water as egg, and paint it over the skin clear down to the base of the throat, back and front. Lie down or relax for a half hour while the astringent dries and draws up the skin, then remove it by washing it off and rinsing until there is no trace of the egg left. Give the skin plenty of oil or a cream afterward, as every bit of natural oil will be taken from it by this process. When the pores have taken up all the oil needed, wipe off the surplus, and rub the skin again with a small piece of ice until it glows. If the ice rub is inconvenient do some gererous rinsing of face and throat with very cold water.

New York Cotton Steady.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP—Cotto opened steady, unchanged to 2 higher with trade and commission house buying in more favorable textile markets. Jan. 10.13; March 10.25; May 10.41; July 10.55. Oct. 10.75; Dec. 10.88.

There was a moderate volume of business with some realizing or liquidation by old longs and scattered southern selling absorbed by the trade buying to fix prices and a little comission house demand. March sold up to 10.28 right after the call while May advanced to 10.44, making net gains of about 3 to 4 points on active positions.

Some observers thought they saw indications of a little fresh buying from commission house sources during the morning, but business tapered off again toward midday and the fluctuations were comparatively narrow. By midday, March contracts were holding around 10.27 and May 10.43 with active months generally showing net advances of about 2 to 3 points, and ruling within a point or two of the best of the morning.

Futures closed steady, 2-4 higher. Spot steady; middling 10:35.

New Orleans Cotton Steady.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady. Cables were a shade better than due, sterling was somewhat easier and gold unchanged. First trades here were one point down too ne up with March at 10.19 and May at 10.36. March improved after the start on some trade buying, helped by firmer stocks, that month advancing to 10.23, or 3 points net higher. Prices lost 2 points later on some hedge-sales, but near the end of the first half hour, March moved up to 10.25 and May to 10.39, showing a net gain of 4 to 5 points from yesterday's close.

The market ruled quite steady all morning, with fair trade buying, supported also by stocks' firmness. Around midmorning, March advanced to 10.28 and May to 10.41, or 6 to 8 points above yesterday's close. Near noon prices eased 4 to 5 points from the highs but the level still showed a net gain of 3 points.

STATE DEPARTMENTS INVESTIGATION WAS RESUMED IN AUSTIN

BROWNSVILLE MAN AND STATE SCHOOLS SUPERINTENDENT HEARD TODAY

AUSTIN, Dec. 28.—(AP)—F. W. Seabury of Brownsville testified today before a legislative committee authorized to investigate a variety of matters with reference to administration of state government, including reports that money had been paid for promises the contributors would receive state employment.

Assistant Attorney General R. G. Waters asked Seabury about the location, use and disposition of 1,172 acres of partially submerged land around Port Isabel.

It was brought out that the land was sold by the state, under a special legislative act for $1 per acre to Port Isabel and later the city sold it for $2 an acre to the Port Isabel Channel Dock and Wharf Company, of which Seabury is general counsel.

The committee was told that a settlement was made under the terms of which the city regained title to approximately 850 acres of the land, some distance from the deep water channel and turning basin.

Seabury testified that financial conditions had prevented development of the land as originally planned. He said approximately $7,000 was expended preliminary to passage of the bill authorizing sale of the acreage.

Woods Testifies.

[illegible] Woods, state superintendent [illegible] public instruction testified [illegible]ncerning a power of attorney he gave during his cam[illegible] for office. Woods stated [illegible]ed the power of attorney [illegible] the hope the individual [illegible]om it was made would be able to obtain campaign funds.

He testified that as far as he knew only $22.50 was collected by the person.

Woods said that two persons had attempted to use the power of attorney unethically. One of them attempted to force Woods to give him employment and the other, a former employe in the department of education under the previous administration, tried to force Woods to retain him, Woods testified.

Grains and Provisions

Fort Worth Cash Grain.

FORT WORTH, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Generally improved demand was reported on the Fort Worth cash grain market today, due in large measure to curtailed receives.

Prices ranged as follows, basis car loads on track at Fort Worth freight paid to delivery point:

Delivered Texas Gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points:

Wheat No. 1 hard 90 3-4@91 3-4.

Barley No. 2 nominally 58-59; No. 3 nominally 57-58.

Sorghums No. 2 milo per 100 lbs nominally 1.02-1.04; No. 3 milo nominally 1.00-1.02, No. 2 kafir nominally 90-92; No. 3 kafir nominally 88-90.

Delivered Texas common points of group three:

Corn No. 2 mixed 62 1-2@63 1-2; No. 2 white 64-65; No. 2 yellow 63 1-2@64 1-2.

Oats No. 2 red 46 1-2@47 1-2; No. 3 red 45 1-2@46 1-2.

Grains Suffer Setback.

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—(AP)—In the face of stock market advances, grain values suffered setbacks today, wheat a maximum of about a cent a bushel.

Modification of the cold wave over the winter wheat belt did much to bring about relief from uneasiness which had prevailed regarding likelihood of crop damage. Notice was also taken of a let up in purchases of wheat for mills and for federal relief operations.

Wheat closed unsettled, at the same as yesterday's finish to 3-4 lower, corn 1-2 off to 1-8 up, oats unchanged to 3-8 down and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7 cents.

Huge Loan Sought By Southeast Texas Railway Third Time

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Permission to borrow $5,000,000 from the public works administration to construct a new branch line of railroad in Southeastern Texas was asked of the Interstate Commerce commission today by the Waco, Beaumont, Trinity and Sabine Railrad company.

The proposed line would be 115 miles long and the cost was estimated at $3,548,137 for new construction. There would be included also 99 miles of old railroad. It was estimated it would cost $1,486,000 to rehabilitate and repair this part.

The construction would include terminals at Beaumont and enlargement of the company's terminals at Trinity.

The application was the third time proposed construction of this line has been before the Interstate Commerce commission in the last 18 months.

Paul T. Sanderson, receiver for the company, was denied a loan of $3,500,000 from the Reconstruction corporation on August 12, 1932 and a $4,500,000 loan on June 6, 1933.

STOCKS POINTED HIGHER THURSDAY IN QUIET MARKET

YEAR-END TAX SELLING SEEMED TO BE OUT OF WAY ON EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Stocks swallowed a sizeable portion of year-end cash tax sellings today, but still displayed a rather lusty appetite for the advance. Gains of 1 to 4 points were in the majority. Last hour profit-taking shaded some peak prices. The close was firm. Transfers were only a little more than half those of yesterday, approximating 1,600,000 shares.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—With year-end tax-selling out of the way, except on a cash basis, stocks pointed higher again today although the feverish turnover of the previous session was missing.

The "cash and carry" transactions which, under the two-day delivery rule, are the only ones now recordable in 1933 income statements, were quite numerous in the first hour. They continued to make up about one-quarter of the activity after the ticker tape had slowed down appreciably. Grains and cotton were rather narrow, but most other commodities were fairly firm. The dollar moved a bit higher in relation to leading foreign exchanges as the domestic gold price was again unchanged. Bonds improved in spots.

Shares of American Telephone, U. S. Steel preferred and International Business Machines got up about 3 each, and gainers of 1 to 2 or more included Western Union, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, U. S. Steel Common, Case, Westinghouse, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, National Distillers, Goodyear, American Tobacco B, Liggett and Myers B, Auburn, Allied Chemical, Santa Fe, Union Pacific and N. Y. Central.

Despite the generally cheerful demeanor of most traders, and the apparently bright outlook for trade and industry during the early part of next year, some market commentators were advising against the relaxation of caution in extending commitments.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—With the bulk of 1933 tax selling apparently out of the way, curb prices maintained their upward direction today.

The tape was well dotted with transactions "for cash," since tax offerings can still be made in that manner through Saturday, but the general list had a good backlog of buying orders and prices worked higher in moderately active trading.

Utilities again forged ahead. American Gas, Electric Bond and Share and Niagara Hudson were fairly strong at times. Elsewhere, gains of fractions to around 2 points were made by American Cyanamid "B," Canadian Industrial Alcohol "A," Newmont Mining, Lake Shore Mines, Safety Car, Sherwin Williams, Swift & Co., Hiram Walker, Distillers-Seagrams and Pioneer Gold.

Pennroad, Cities Services, American Superpower and Standard Oil of Indiana were steady. Humble Oil had an early rise of a point.

Better Sailing Weather Is Found By Byrd Thursday

ABOARD ADMIRAL BYRD'S FLAGSHIP OFF ANTARTICA, Dec. 28—(Via Macway Radio—(AP)—The flagship of the Byrd Antartic expedition this afternoon crept at reduced speed through iceberg-strewn seas, after high winds which had buffeted her for 36 hours subsided this morning.

Until 6:30 a.m. today the vessel was still headed into a northwest gale, in order to give the big seaplane cradled aft the benefit of the lee of the midships deckhouse.

When the sun broke clear for a few minutes and the wind abated, the flagship was swung around and headed east at full speed. Admiral Richard Byrd was anxious to make up for four days lost on account of fog and storms. Later the sped was reduced because of icebergs.

It was the first sight of the sun since Friday.

Rice Couple Gave Christmas Dining For Their Family

On December 25, 1933, Christmas Day, a loveable old couple, none other than Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Webb of Rice, served a beautiful Christmas dinner to their children and grandchildren and some close friends.

The children are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Graham and daughter, Bobbie of Corsicana; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Burge and son; Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Brewer, all of Corsicana; Mrs. J. L. Webb of Children, of Pursley; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Webb of Richland; Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Webb of Sessions; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Webb of Rice; Mrs. Sallie Mahoney and children of Waco; and Miss Ethel Webb, the only daughter at home. A daughter in Enid, Oklahoma, was unable to attend due to illness. She also has a son.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Young of Houston.

It was a grand and glorious day as we all held sway with those dear old people on this glad Christmas day. It is our wish to you, Mr. and Mrs. Webb that as the old year passes away it will usher in one more beautiful and healthful to you. Happy New Year, and may God bless you.

—A Friend.

Christmas Program Given At Meeting Emhouse P. T. A.

At the regular social meeting of the Emhouse P.T.A. Thursday night, a special Christmas program was given by the pupils of the school. Real talent was displayed and much training manifested in the rendition of the program. The teachers are to be commended for the splendid manner in which the program was presented, especially, Misses Lois and Patty Hobbs, Vera Wakeland and Ruth Roach.

The true Christmas spirit of "Peace on earth, good will toward men" was expressed in the different numbers as well as forgettting self and remembering the poor and needy. Some fruits of this spirit was shown when on Friday the pupils of each room made a contribution consisting of canned goods, fruits, etc., to the unfortunate of our town.

The program follows:

Christmas Carols — Girls Glee Club.

P.T.A. President's Greetings—Mrs. C. D. Owen.

"Christmas"—Alva Montgomery.

Christmas Selections — Rhythm Band.

Reading—Walter Lee Hendon of Richland.

The Christmas Bazaar.

Characters:

Billy Carstairs, mysterious Santa—Henry Derden.

Libbie Baines, resourceful waif—Laverne Collins.

Tottie Baines, her younger sister—Janie M. Allen.

Weta Hopeworth, kind hearted girl—Mildred Salter.

Mrs. Hopeworth, vice-chairman of bazaar—Zula Maud Hill.

Avist Cherry, assist, at candy booth—Josephine Richards.

Jesse Akers, assist. at doll booth—Lillie M. Foster.

Roscoe Remmer, a spoiled son—Ray Hoyt Harris.

Poodle Neely, his chum—Junior Parrish.

Abel Stowe (Crickety) wandering juggler—R. J. Philips.

Mike Brophy, a policeman—Clayton Collins.

Miss Cynthia Ellerton, wealthy lady—Helen Salter.

Chorus—Snow fairies — Santa's elves.

Time—Four or five days before Christmas.

MRS. NICK PARISH, Reporter.

Large and Happy Family Gathering Emhouse Christmas

A large and happy family, Christmas gathering on Christmas Day was that in the J. T. O'Neal home at Emhouse, when Mr. and Mrs. O'Neal had the majority of their children and grandchildren with them for the entire day.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Will Sharpley and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Archie Tinkle of Corsicana; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hatley and family of Dallas. Mr and Mrs. E. Steen and family of Tupelo and G. R. and Bud O'Neal of Emhouse. Other guests for the day were Mr. T. M. Tinkle of Clarendon, who is visiting his son, Mr. Archie Tinkle. and Mr. George Walden of Dallas.

Mayor and Mrs. Edens Hosts For Christmas Dining For Family

Mayor and Mrs. J. Wesley Edens were host and hostess on Christmas Day for a lovely family dining with Mrs. Edens' mother, Mrs. J. D. Ambrose and brother Mr. Warren Ambrose of Fort Worth and family as their guests. Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose and their children, Anne, Warren,Jr., and Joe, came over Christmas morning, and returned home Tuesday.

By ROBBIN COONS
Associated Press Staff Writer.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Director Dan Cupid could set back today on his canvas-back chair, lay down his megaphone, and reflect complacently on an epic production titled "My 1933 Campaign in Filmland."

Dan lent his wings to air elopments, sat on the radiator cap of fast cars bearing prospective honeymooners, presided soberly at church weddings, and rode the locomotives of speeding trains. For variety he inserted a few home or garden ceremonies, and staged one scene—starring Betty Compson and Irving Weinber—on a railway station platform.

His cast was composed of 37 pairs of principals, each of more or less importance in the film world.

Outstanding in dramatic interest perhaps was his sequence in which Jean Harlow, platinum blonde, and Harold G. Rosson, her cameraman, eloped by air to Yuma for an early morning surprise wedding, September 18.

Blondell Opens Season.

The dimunitive director opened his film with suspense, January 4, when Joan Blondell, wearing a wig, and George Barnes, cameraman, eloped to Phoenix, Ariz.—and it was several hours before their identities were established.

Other romantic sequences brought together in marriage:

Adrienne Ames and Bruce Cabot (Miss Ames had just divorced Stephen Ames.)

Fred Astaire and Mrs. Phyllis Livingstone Potter.

Carlyle Blackwell and Avonne Taylor, stage actress.

Alice Joyce and Director Clarence Brown.

Sally Eilers and Harry Joe Brown.

LARGE SCALE PLOT TO POISON FINNISH ARMY MEN REPORTED

ARMY'S TECHNICAL GROUPS ALLEGED OBJECTS OF PLOTTINGS OF SPIES

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. [illegible]—(AP)—Authorities announced today they had discovered a large scale plot to poison high officials of the Finnish army's technical groups and ordered a dead official's body exumed in the belief he was murdered.

The alleged plot, they claimed, is part of what they describe as the espionage conspiracy in connection with which two Americans, Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Jacobson of Michigan, were arrested Oct. 27. Jacobson was a mathematics instructor in the Northville, Mich., high school three years.

The body to be exhumed is that of Lieut. Col. Fritz Walter Asplund, director of the state munitions works until his sudden death last April. Police physicians will conduct an autopsy to determine whether he really died from inflamation of the lungs, the cause given on his death certificate.

Police say the symptoms of death from lung inflammation and from certain kinds of poisons are similar.

It was recalled that, at the time of Asplund's death, three other officials were suddenly taken seriously ill.

They were Engineer Mantesar, Bureau Chief Tera, and Engineer Ax, all important personages in the army's technical works.

Authorities said these three probably were poisoned together with Col. Asplund but that he was the only fatality.

A. A. Oksala, national defense minister, announced definitely that Asplund had been poisoned and that the lives of the others had been attempted. He ordered an intense investigation of the reputed plot.

RUSSIAN WOMAN DENIES CONNECTED WITH ALLEGED SPIES

THE MYSTERIOUS MADAME STAHL UNDER EXAMINATION IN SPY CHARGES

PARIS, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The mysterious Mme. Lidia Tchekaloff Stahl, middle-aged Russian scholar, whom police charge with being the brains of a huge international band of spies, cooly denied to an examining magistrate today that she was connected with espionage activities in Finland.

She acknowledged that she lived in Finland in 1915 and 1920 but insisted that she never was connected with the alleged spies—including two Americans—recently arrested in Helsingfors in what the Finnish government believed to be another espionage [illegible].

Government authorities in Helsingfors announced today [illegible] believed spies there had directed a poison plot against army [illegible] officials, killing a Lieutenant Colonel. Finnish police asserted the poison plot was connected with an alleged spy ring which they declared Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Jacobson of Michigan were [illegible]. The Jacobsons are [illegible].)

French police said the case of Stahl apparently was separate from that involving Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon [illegible], American couple held [illegible] in connection with the alleged espionage.

Has Traveled Much.

In the course of her examination by the magistrate, Mme. Stahl sketched the story of her life. Apparently she had wandered over much of the world, in the course of her travels picking up a Master of Arts degree from Columbia University, New York.

She told Magistrate Benon that she had lived in the United States in 1928 and 1932, studying at Columbia. Previously, she said, she had studied chemistry and mathematics at the Sorbonne, later devoting herself to the study of the [illegible] language and civilization.

A Finnish sculptor, name not made public, who exhibited in [illegible] in 1928, was the man who denounced Mme. Stahl, according to the police. They said he told [illegible] that she possessed a document bearing the letterhead of the French ministry of marine.

Martin Had Cash.

Louis Martin, former translator in the ministry of marine who also is under arrest, likewise was examined today by Magistate Benon. The police claim Mme. Stahl received her secret information through the medium of Martin.

Martin's bank strong box was opened in his presence and revealed as its contents 90,000 francs, $100 in United States currency, women's jewels, and a quantity of silver. Martin told his questioners that this represented his savings from a salary of [illegible] francs a year and a [illegible] bonus of 5,000 francs.

Police say the strong box was one which had been rented by [illegible] Bostrom, a friend of Mme. Stahl, before she left Paris in [illegible] with police trailing her.

One of Gorgeous Scenes In 'Footlight Parade' at Palace

With the smashing success registered "Footlight Parade" now showing at the Palace Theatre, Warner Bros. have firmly established themselves as the leaders in producing this new type of screen entertainment.

Just as they were months ahead of other organizations in introducing musical comedies with the talking pictures, so again they have foreseen the trend of public taste, or rather have created it, with their cycle of musicals which started with "42nd Street" and was followed by "Gold Diggers of 1933". No wonder their "Footlight Parade" which tops its predecessors in story, cast and magnitude of its numbers and settings is the talk of moviegoers.

The all-star cast includes such popular screen stars as James Cagney, Joan Blondell, Ruby Keeler, Dick Powell, Frank McHugh, Guy Kibbee, Ruth Donnelly, Hugh Herbert, Claire Dodd, Gordon Westcott, Arthur Hohl and Philip Faversham.

Valuable Ring Taken in Dinner Holdup Returned

DALLAS, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Judge Grover Adams today received through the mail a package containing the $2,500 diamond dinner ring taken from Mrs. J. A. Dorsey during the spectacular dinner party holdup in the home of Mrs. Katherine Shea in Highland Park West last Valentine night.

The package was mailed from Fort Worth yesterday. An accompanying note read.

"This is the Dorsey diamond ring that was taken in the Highland Park Robbery last Valentine day. Please deliver it to the correct insurance company."

Judge Adams learned from Mrs. Dorsey that an insurance company already had settled for the loss and the judge placed it in safe keeping until arrangements for its transfer to the company are completed.

Lloyd Payne and Ford Roberts, indicted in connection with the robbery, are at large but Dick Roberts and Pete Carr are serving sentences in the State penitentiay. They pleaded guilty to four indictments each.

RAIL PRESIDENT DIED FOLLOWING LENGTHY ILLNESS

RAPID CITY, S. D., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Frank Clarity, 56, president and general manager of the Rapid City, Black Hills and Western railway, died here yesterday after an illness of several months.

Clarity began his career as a car checker with the Great Northern Railway in 1894, advancing to general superintendent of the Western division. Later, he became assistant general manager of the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railway company, and during the post war years of 1918 to 1920, he was transportation assistant and assistant regional director of the Central Western Region at Chicago

From 1920 until he came to Rapid City over three years ago, he was given president and general manager of the Fort Worth and Denver City railway and the Wichita Valley railway, with headquarters at Fort Worth.

Low requiem mass will be said at the Catholic Cathedral here Friday and the body will be taken to Superior, Wis., for burial.

RECENT WORLD WAR WAS FAR AHEAD OF ALL OTHERS ROLLED INTO ONE SCIENTISTS STATE

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec 28.—(AP)—The first universal, scientific war curve, plotting 902 major wars since 500 years before Christ, shows the late world war eight times bigger than all the others rolled into one.

All of ancient Greece, or Rome and 10 centuries of Europe's eight foremost fighting nations dwindle before the statistics and implications of 1914 to 1919 as presented to the American Association for the Advancement of Science today by Prof. Pitirim A. Sorokin, Harvard sociologist, and Lieut. General N. N. Golovin.

Their curve, showing nearly the whole historical rise and falls in warlike spirit among men, points to universal peace, in their own words, as only a "miracle." It shows wars steadily worse in modern times; their apex nearly always at the peak of "cultural" and commercial influence.

The analysts do not say what twists in this snakelike curve may give hopes of peace, but there is one upon which many statisticians might seize. That is the completely erratic flow, with long time variations, suggesting that in the past man has done nothing about it.

Prof. Pitirim is a prominent sociologist, chairman of the division of sociology at Harvard, a native of Russia, an eminent teacher there, imprisoned three times for being too conservative and three more for being too radical; now banished and a naturalized citizen of the United States. General Golovin is a former Lieut. General on the general staff, Imperial Russian army, noted as teacher, historian, strategist.

The modern nations in the curve, with the wars of each, are:

Austria 131, France 185, Holland 23, Spain 75, England 176, Germany 24, Italy 32 and Russia 151.

"This said the report, "refutes the theory that war tends to disappear with the progress of civilization. It means also that all the commendable hopes that war will disappear in the near future are based on nothing more than wish and a belief in miracles.

"Most of these hopes sprang up in the 19th century, which was more peaceful than the period from the 12th century to the 16th.

"All the data suggests that in the course of history war has no perpetual trend; it tends neither to decrease nor to increase; but oscillates erratically with longtime ups and downs. In all probability this trendless or erratic oscillation will continue indefinitely."

Murray Announces Choice of Successor

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Governor Murray's weekly newspaper today announced the democratic candidacy of Tom Anglin of Holdenville, speaker of the house of the last legislature, for governor.

The governor previously had endorsed Anglin as his successor. The state constitution prevents a governor from succeeding himself.

NO TESTIMONY WAS OFFERED AT FIELD ALLOCATION HEARING

AUSTIN, Dec. 28.—(AP)—No testimony was offered today at a hearing before the Texas Railroad Commission on field allocation of the allowable oil production for Texas for January. It was the first time that a regularly scheduled hearing on oil matters failed to produce any testimony. Records of previous hearings will be considered.

The commission announced it was awaiting a communication from the United States Bureau of Mines relative to the allowable assigned to Texas by the Federal Oil Administration for the first three months of 1934. It was anticipated the communication would show the method by which the Texas allowable of 884.000 barrels daily was calculated.

Texas fields now are producing under a railroad commission allowable of 877,000 barrels daily although the federal government's allowable for December was 880,000 barrels.

Petitions were offered from operators, royalty owners and merchants in the Panhandle area asking for an increased allowable in that field.

Operators concerned over possible conflicts between the railroad commission's rules regulating development of new field and those promulgated by Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior and national oil administrator, and their effect on producers.

John Boyle of San Antonio asked the commission if it intended to call a hearing on the rules issued by Ickes, stating operators were in doubt as to which rules should be obeyed in event they conflicted.

Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson said the statutes gave control over development of fields to the railroad commission and that the commission would enforce its regulations.

"What Ickes does with his rules is his business," Thompson said. "We'll run our business and let him run his."

Thompson added the belief that the commission "has written some good orders" and said they still were in effect. He said Ickes regulations likely will issued under the national oil code to which the "Texas railroad commission is not a signatory."

"What will be the attitude of the commission if we obey Ickes orders and they conflict with the rules of the Texas commission?" Boyle asked.

Lon A. Smith, commission chairman said, the commission had not received a copy of Ickes orders and that the "bridge will be crossed when we get to it." He said Ickes regugulations might be an improvement over those of the commission.

A special hearing will be set for operators in the Crane-Upon field of West Texas protesting against the method of distributing that fields allowable.

Special hearings on the Tom Ball, High Island and Barber's Hill fields in the Gulf coast area will be held in Houston January 5.

Dollar Resumes Its Upward Trend With Gold Price Stable

By The Associated Press.

The dollar resumed its upward trend in foreign exchange markets today as the price of domestic gold remained unchanged at 34.06 an ounce.

In London, the American unit advanced 2 3-4 cents at $5.08 1-2 to the pound while in New York sterling was quoted at $5.08 3-4 off one cent.

At Paris the dollar gained 20 centimes, closing at an equivalent of 6.07 cents to the franc. In New York, francs declined .01 of a cent to 6.09 cents.

In terms of the franc the dollar was valued at approximately 64.36 per cent of parity.

Based on the domestic gold price the dollar had a theoretical value of about 60.68 per cent of its former parity.

NRA Program Is Not Clear Says Economist May Lead to Poverty

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Saying its program is "not quite clear," Professor George Filipetti, economics authority at the University of Minnesota, today told the American Economics Association that the NRA may lead to poverty.

"Code regulations that will influence prices will prove disruptive of past interindustrial relationships," he said in a paper presented at one of sixteen simultaenous socio-economic conventions. "In many instances the regulations may eliminate price competition."

"Furthermore, unless something unforseen develops, the markets for porducers' goods will grow constantly more restricted due to the provisions penalizing the machines and the organization of new units in 'over-expanded' industries," he said.

REVEALING SONGS OF AMERICAN NEGRO SUBJECT OF LOMAX

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 28.—(AP)—John A. Lomax, collector of folk songs, told distinguished scholars of literature here today that the world knows little of the "really revealing folk songs of the negro."

In a paper read before the comparative literature section of the semi-centennial meeting of the Modern Language Association of America, Lomax told of a 16,000-mile trip he made through negro convict camps in the South collecting 200 "new tunes of what seem to us pure negro creation."

The songs convinced him, he said, that little is known of the "really revealing songs of the negro that grow out of the surge and throb of labor—songs that treat of the things that touch his daily life—his work, his woman, his appetite, his contact with the white man."

Without books and without radio the negro convicts turn to the best negro spirituals and secular songs to relieve the monotony of prison life, he said.

Light Rain Visited All Sections County Past Twelve Hours

A light rain fell in all sections of Navarro county early Thursday morning, and showers fell at intervals throughout the day. The rain followed a norther which sent the temperatures to the lowest mark of the season Wednesday night.

A continuation of the local showers is predicted by the weather bureau.

All fall grains will be benefitted by the rain and land that has recently been broken will be in fine shape for further cultivation.
